EUROPE GETTING IMPATIENT

SECRECY URGED ON U.S.

A TRUCE WITHOUT AMERICA?

London, June 21.

There were strong rumours in London to-day that if and when stabilisation of dollar-sterling exchange takes place it will be round about 4.40 to the pound instead of 4.05 as was contemplated during the week-end.

After the receipt of an important cable from Washington by the American delegation to the World Economic Conference, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald held long conversations with some of the leading figures in the delegation to-day.

There is a general apprehension that America's attitude towards stabilisation may wreck efforts at a compromise in other important directions.

PREMIER URGES SECRECY.

It is reported that the Prime Minister, who is President of the Conference, urged the American delegates to keep the stabilisation discussions secret in order to enable the Conference to proceed with other subjects unhampered.

It is stated that he also urged secrecy on the score that world markets would not be subjected to the disturbing influence of stabilisation rumours.

It is understood that the American delegates agreed temporarily to restrain further information to the public in this matter.

EUROPE IMPATIENT.

It is reported that a number of the delegations of the smaller European Powers are getting highly impatient with the delay in securing stabilisation as a result of America's attitude.

They are urging the holding of a special meeting of the European Powers at the conference for the purpose of concentrating upon seeking an agreement embracing the European States.

FRANCE SEEKING NEW TRUCE.

The French attitude is reflected in a message from Paris stating that considering dollar stabilisation proposals as dead, French finance is now looking to the provisional backing of a sterling-franc exchange, leading to a European currency truce, without the United States.—Reuter.

SIR THOMAS STOREY PASSES AWAY

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received June 21, 4.30 p.m.)

London, June 21.

A figure well-known in London maritime circles has passed away in the person of Sir Thomas James Storey, K.B.E., whose death at the age of 82 is announced.

Among the positions he occupied at one time or another were the chairmanships of Lloyd's Register of Shipping (1925-8); British and Foreign Marine Insurance Co. Ltd. (London Board); The Liverpool Underwriters Association; The London Institute of Underwriters; and the Average Adjusters Association.

His wife pre-deceased him by 11 years.

BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received June 22, 9.15 a.m.)

London, June 21.

The Canadian golfers, Ross Somerville, holder of the American Amateur title, and John Nash, both regarded as formidable challengers for the British Amateur championship at Hoylake, gained further victories to-day.

Somerville scored a success in the fourth round when he beat J. Walker, of Coombe Hill, by six and four.

Nash gave a magnificent performance in beating two Irishmen, the veteran Lionel Muir, last year's semi-finalist by 4 and 2 in the third round and John Burke, Irish champion for the last three years, at the nineteenth, in the fourth round.

George Dunlop of America beat Alaric de Forest (Royal and Ancient) at the nineteenth in the fourth round, but the only other overseas challenger, the Spanish exponent, Luis Aranybarra was beaten by Ripley of Banstead Downs by one hole in the third round.

WETHERED THROUGH.

Other third round results were: Cyril Tolley beat T. Manners 2 and 1, James Dawson (Troon) beat Martin Smith, a former champion by one hole, A. Thompson (Aldeburgh) beat Ernest Torrance at the 21st, and Ivor Thomas beat Stout, the English champion by 2 and 1.

Among the early fourth round winners are: Roger Wethered, who beat Henry Howell of Glamorgan 3 and 2 and Edward Kyle of Singapore, who eliminated Jack McLean of Hayston, one of the favourites for the title, by one hole.—Reuter.

RUBBER OUTPUT RESTRICTION

OPTIMISTIC VIEWS EXPRESSED

Amsterdam, June 21.

Satisfactory progress is reported to have been made at a meeting of the Committee of the International Association of Rubber Growers.

Optimistic views are expressed regarding the chances of joint international action.

In the British House of Commons, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister said that no negotiations are proceeding between the British and Dutch Governments although the producers themselves are holding discussions.

He added that no request for negotiations had been received from the Dutch Government.—Reuter.

WHILE PITTMAN SCHEME IS SHELVED

BRITAIN SILENT ON POLICY

WAITING ON AN AGREEMENT

Silver rehabilitation efforts have suffered a distinct setback.

In London, Senator Key Pittman's scheme has been shelved.

Shanghai bankers have cabled to Mr. T. V. Soong urging him against lending any assistance to efforts to raise the price of the white metal.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received June 21, 1.15 a.m.)

Shanghai, June 22.

Chinese bankers in Shanghai are definitely opposed to the plans taking shape in London for raising the value of silver, according to a cable addressed to Mr. T. V. Soong by the Chinese Bankers' Association yesterday.

It is understood that a long meeting of the Association was held at which the pros and cons of the silver rehabilitation proposals were discussed.

BANKERS' ARGUMENT.

Finally it was decided to send a cable to Mr. Soong deprecating the measures contemplated for artificial stimulation of silver prices.

It is pointed out in the cable that the amount of silver in China is only sufficient for home circulation in China and the country is therefore unable to afford the exodus of the metal to foreign countries, an exodus which would inevitably follow an increase in the value of silver.—Reuter.

THE OLD BUGBEAR.

London, June 21.

Senator Key Pittman's silver proposals have been shelved until it is possible to reach an agreement between the silver producing countries and others to prevent dumping on the market.

The old issue of the Indian Government's surplus stocks is still the bugbear.—Reuter.

GOVERNMENT SILENT.

London, June 21.

Replying to a question in Parliament regarding the raising of the value of silver Mr. Horro-Bellish, for the Treasury, said that the various views taken on the silver problem would receive careful consideration, but the Chancellor of the Exchequer did not think it desirable to make any further statement pending the discussions on the matter which were taking place at the World Economic and Monetary Conference.—British Wireless.

FLIGHT ENDS IN TRAGEDY

FATE OF SPANISH AIRMEN

ONE KILLED IN CRASH

New York, June 21.

Tragedy brought to a close the brilliant Atlantic flight of the Spanish airmen, Captain Barbaran and Lieutenant Col-lart.

To-day it was learnt that the airmen, who had been missing since completing a flight from Seville to Cuba, crashed in the state of Puebla, Mexico, one being killed and the other injured.

The aviators left Seville at 4.45 a.m. on June 10 in an endeavour to beat the British long-distance flight record. They failed in their objective, but succeeded in carrying out a wonderful flight from east to west across the Atlantic.

They landed at Camaguey in Cuba, four thousand miles from Seville after flying the Atlantic in less than thirty-six hours.

Their machine was a bi-plane, and carried petrol sufficient to last for 48 hours. The airmen were forced to battle against stiff winds for the greater part of the journey. After a short rest at Camaguey, they again set off and were missing for some time, the discovery of their fate being made to-day.—Reuter.

BONHAM STRAND PROPERTY

JUDGMENT FOR THE DEFENDANT

Judgment for defendant, with costs, was given by the Chief Justice, Mr. H. J. Wood, in the Bonham Strand West Property case at the Supreme Court this morning.

The action was brought by Li Tse-shi to recover 73, Bonham Strand West, from defendant, Pong Tsai-ching, of Shatin. It was alleged by the plaintiff, and admitted by the defendant, that the property assignment was a forgery.

It was submitted by the defence that their lack of knowledge of the forgery did not entitle them as purchasers, and it was further alleged that plaintiff had contemporaneous knowledge of the disappearance of the deeds and the fraudulent assignment of the property.

The Chief Justice had already given judgment for defendant on the issue of fact and to-day's final judgment arose from defendant's motion for a further finding.

A Chinese motor mechanic was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday, with burns received when tending to the engine of a Kowloon bus.

WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

ITALY SOUNDS A WARNING

LONDON, JUNE 21.

ONCE AGAIN A NOTE OF WARNING HAS BEEN SOUNDED AT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE, THIS TIME DURING A DISCUSSION UPON MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S PROPOSALS FOR CREATING LIBERAL CREDIT FACILITIES IN ALL COUNTRIES.

With the general principles of the proposals, there was little disagreement, but the Italian delegate pointed to the danger of making credit available before a demand for credit established itself. The obvious danger is that the resources will be used for purely speculative purposes, leading to an artificial boom and a further catastrophic reaction.

TRADE RESTRICTIONS.

The problem of trade restrictions is now the topic of discussion in the first Sub-Committee of the Economic Commission.

This is the Commercial Policy Sub-Committee and a private meeting was held this afternoon under the chairmanship of Herr Krogmann, the Lord Mayor of Hamburg.

BRITISH PROPOSALS.

A number of proposals were submitted including draft resolutions by the British delegate, proposing, among other things, the abolition of clearing and barter agreements as far as possible;

the abolition of import prohibitions, without prejudice to the exceptions generally recognised internationally;

that a clear distinction be made between import quotas for the protection of the home producer and production or market quotas imposed in pursuance of international agreements in order to effect a rise in prices;

the progressive abolition of all arbitrary import quotas.

REGULATION.

The abolition of arbitrary import quotas is regarded by the British delegation as of the highest importance, but it is thought that the best solution of the special problems raised by the disastrous slump in the prices of certain primary commodities will be international agreements for production and marketing between the countries principally concerned.

CREDIT POLICY.

The work of world conference was continued to-day in the two sub-committees of the monetary commission. The proposals advanced in the first of these sub-committees by Mr. Neville Chamberlain were supported in speeches by several delegates, including M. Bonnet, the French Finance Minister, who suggested that the proposals should be considered by a special sub-committee instructed to bring back definite recommendations as early as possible.

He added that while it was necessary to discipline production they must also try to increase consumption and thus end the terrible paradox of mankind starving in the face of plenty.

He agreed that a policy of cheap money, made available in each country at the lowest rates which the circumstances of loans would permit, was essential. Operations in the open market must be most carefully considered by technical experts.

A WARNING NOTE.

The Italian delegate, Professor Beneduce, while in general agreement, urged that for a liberal credit policy to have the desired effect upon prices it should not precede a demand for credit otherwise there was a danger of the volume of available credit being diverted to speculative transactions which might produce a period of artificial prosperity liable to be followed by another crisis.—British Wireless.

U.S. EXPENDITURE EXAMINED

London, June 21.

The first Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Eyre Monsell, replying to a Parliamentary question said his attention had been drawn to the announcement that President Roosevelt had authorised the expenditure of $59,000,000 for building warships under the London Treaty. The total expenditure approved by Britain in this regard was $39,000,000. Up to March 31st last however the total sum so spent was $8,250,000.—British Wireless.

SOONG TALKS WITH DALADIER

DISCUSSES FAR EAST

Paris, June 21.

Mr. T. V. Soong was to-day received by M. Daladier, with whom he discussed the Far Eastern situation. Mr. Soong explained the position from the standpoint of the Nanking Government.

Mr. Soong also visited M. Painleve.

It is understood that together with Dr. Wellington Koo, he is flying to London to-morrow morning.—Reuter.

SOVIET BORDER EMERGENCY

PREPARED FOR ANY DEVELOPMENT

MANOEUVRES IN BARABASH

Harbin, June 22.

Russia's policy of preparedness in the Far East is leading to further interesting developments in the Maritime Province.

Following the erection of strong defensive works along the Amur River, including machine-gun nests and pill-boxes at the Sungari Delta and fortifications over a wide area in the Blagovestchensk district, a comb-out of civilians has commenced.

It is learned that all "unreliable" Soviet citizens in the frontier zones are being rounded up and are being deported to districts in West Siberia.

TANKS AND GAS UNITS.

Meanwhile, large U.S.S.R. forces have been stationed on Lake Hing-kaihu. The forces are powerfully equipped with all modern weapons of war, including tanks and gas units.

They are being concentrated in the vicinity of Barabash, opposite Sulfeno, the extreme easterly point of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and are carrying out manoeuvres daily.

It is evident that the Soviet Government is suspicious of Japan's intentions and is taking every precaution to prevent surprise.—Reuter.

YOUR CHILDREN

Let's All Turn
"Sun-Worshippers"

By Olive Roberts Barton

The sun is here. Let us turn sun-worshippers while we may. The winter has been long and sunless except in the southernmost states where, we hear, even they have lacked their usual quota of bright days.

Do we need sun? We do, and the children do—everybody does. Every living thing almost except mushrooms needs the rays that sustain life and defeat illness.

After a long winter our grandmothers used to get out the sulphur and molasses, brew sassafras tea and concoct beverages that were supposed to do something to the blood. What they did, we must suppose, was to supply that mysterious vitamin "D" that is really sun-storage.

Nothing Equals Sunshine.

We give it to the children in the form of cod-liver oil through the winter months so that they have a first-rate defense against lack-of-sun diseases such as rickets. But even so, nothing can take the place of the sun itself, the source of life. Why shut ourselves and the children away from it? Yet it almost seems as if human beings, especially in the cities, regard it as a merely incidental thing, like putting on a bit of jewelry when convenient.

Babies get sunbaths of course nowadays most of the winter through, indoors and under the direction of a doctor. Then they reach the age of two or three and what happens? Perhaps they get a walk everyday all bundled up, but the only sun that really touches their bodies is that which touches the face. Fresh air is fine but it is not sun.

Must Reach the Skin.

Sunlight through a window pane is of little use. It is warm and cheery but that is about all. There should be nothing between the body and the direct rays of Old Sol.

I believe it is a splendid idea to give all young children or weak ones an exposure once a day. It is cold outdoors still, too chilly to go out without wraps, at least too chilly in most places to get out sun suits. They are fine for later on, however.

In the meantime with the window open and protection from draughts, the nude bath may be easily taken.

There is one thing to remember. First exposures should be only five minutes long and then slowly worked up to a longer period each day. It is well to ask the doctor. It depends, as do most things with children, upon age, strength, condition and local climate.

Use Good Judgment.

Just as soon as possible when it is warmer, get them into abbreviated sun suits for a short time each day and send them outdoors. When summer comes they can stay out a great part of the time, but not too long when it is hot.

It needs judgment. Each mother must figure out how safe it is. She must not risk cold or dampness. And even the sun itself is a powerful enemy if we are not careful. In summer there may be danger in the other extreme.

Morning sun before eleven or afternoon sun after three are best for midsummer. Noon heat is too great.

But our problem now is spring. Here is the sun. Don't waste it.

Shadows Heighten
Eyes' Allure

By Alicia Hart

Brimmed hats and nose veils on little hats call for intriguing eyes.

Artfully shadowed eyes will look upon summer as a time for romance supreme.

Just a bit of soft green shadow, put on over a mist of cream across the lid, heightens the allure of eyes. Green shadow goes beautifully with the pastel coloured things that usher summer in.

However, if your eyes are blue, you may find blue shadow more suitable. Brown eyes, when the colouring is medium blonde, take to green shadow. When they are dark brown, with chestnut hair or black, then a purply brown tint on the eyes is fine.

There's a new type of eye make-up suggested for this summer. This consists of using two eye shadows. First you match the colour of your eyes, then you put on a film of green over it to give an effect of life and sparkle.

Don't overdo daytime make-up, even though your hat has a wide brim. Save your best efforts for evening. And don't forget those sparkling new eye shadows that have a metallic effect combined with colour.

Those that have green, with a silvery cast, are almost universally becoming. Have you tried them?

DARLING FOOL

McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONNIE O'DARE, 20 and beautiful, helps to support her young brother and sister by working in a dress shop. Monnie is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, rich and handsome, but he seems to neglect her for SANDRA LAWRENCE, a member of his own set.

JEFFERY, Sandra's maid, suspects her of "sneaking" JIMMY, the chauffeur, CHARLES EUSTACE, new in town, is kind to Monnie and Kay, her younger sister. Kay makes a "pick-up" acquaintance with CHESTER BICELOW, travelling man, who flatters her, telling her she ought to be in New York.

CHAPTER XIII

Charles said "Hot!" and smiled. He wore no hat and the pallor of his skin was a thing Monnie noted unconsciously. Unlike Dan, who wore his sunburn with a swagger, Eustace never tanned but bore always, in spite of hatless horse-back riding and mornings at golf, a kind of tropic indolence which suited him well. He wore, just now, the most elegant of carefree white flannels and a blue coat.

"You look awfully cool," he said to the girl sitting on the low step, in the shadow of the honey-suckle vine.

Monnie scarcely stirred. She felt the smile with which she answered him to be a prodigious effort. There seemed to be no life in her at all these days. To-night after a cold supper and after a shower she had slipped into one of her oldest party frocks—a blue lace of two seasons ago, unsuitable she felt for anything but the warmest night in Belvedere. She had not expected visitors but here, on her very doorstep, was the most elegant young man in town! She said with an effort, "Thanks, I don't feel at all cool."

She glanced up at him in the half dark, one flushed cheek resting on a slim, long-fingered hand, her breath coming and going quickly beneath the folds of soft lace. The bodice was cut rather low and the creamy skin of her neck and bosom glimmered above it. Her eyes, shadowed with weariness and heat, looked big and dark under their fringe of heavy lashes.

She asked him to sit down. He made a gesture toward the gate in the shadows outside the gate and said slowly, "I'd thought perhaps you'd come for a drive—out where it's cool."

"Mother and Mark have gone to a strawberry festival," Monnie said with apparent irrelevance. "And Kay—Kay's over at Rissy's. I wonder if I ought—"

"We'll be back in an hour," Charles said. "Why not?" She debated this. She had refused to go to the festival. She had said she was too tired but the real reason was her desire to avoid people. Prying people who would ask questions. About Dan.

About everything. With this man it was different. She could be easy with him. He was—well, a friend! She felt that. Splendid in his way, of course, but not, Monnie thought, the type to stir her pulses.

As he held out his hand to assist her, she gave him her own. A child's clasp, Charles Eustace felt, half piqued and half amused.

"Believe I will," Monnie murmured softly. "If you'll excuse this—this ridiculous costume."

He gave her a mocking bow, practiced eyes taking in every detail of her appearance. The lace had been adroitly cut to show every exquisite line of the girl's figure.

"It's a lovely dress," he told her. Monnie widened her eyes at his tone. There was something not quite cordial about it. Did he think she was fishing for compliments?

She reddened to the roots of her hair and in that instant Charles Eustace regretted his discourtesy. Used as he was to the finished wiles of more sophisticated women, he had carelessly bulked this young girl with the crowd.

"I'm sorry," he said awkwardly. "I really mean it. It is a lovely dress—"

"Of course, it is old," Monnie faltered, hurt by she knew not what. "It's a party dress, too, and unsuitable—but I was so hot—I had nothing else so cool—I didn't expect anyone—"

She hated herself for it, but suddenly she was in tears. "Do forgive me. I'm an idiot—but I seem to be all tired out and we were so busy to-day at the store—"

A big clean handkerchief was pressed into her hands. She straightened herself, mopping at the persistent tears, trying to smile again. But it had not been just that. Both she and the man knew that his tone was the lash which had cut her deeply. Charles Eustace said, slowly, "Monnie, you do know I'm your friend, don't you?"

She stared at him. "I hope so. Of course!"

He flicked at the bushes beside him with a willow switch he had picked up.

"It's only—only that I get into one of my bad moods now and again and say things I don't mean. I did mean your frock was lovely. But some devil of sarcasm put that edge on my voice. I don't know why. Or yes, I do. I'm used to the sort of woman who invites comment on her attire. I thought, for an instant, that was what you were doing. I ask your pardon—"

"But even if I had," Monnie began, puzzled, "it's no crime, surely, to want compliments?"

He laughed on an uncomfortable note.

"Of course not, Monnie, you don't know anything about me. I've got a wretched temper. I've been through some bad times. Some day perhaps I'll bore you by telling you about them."

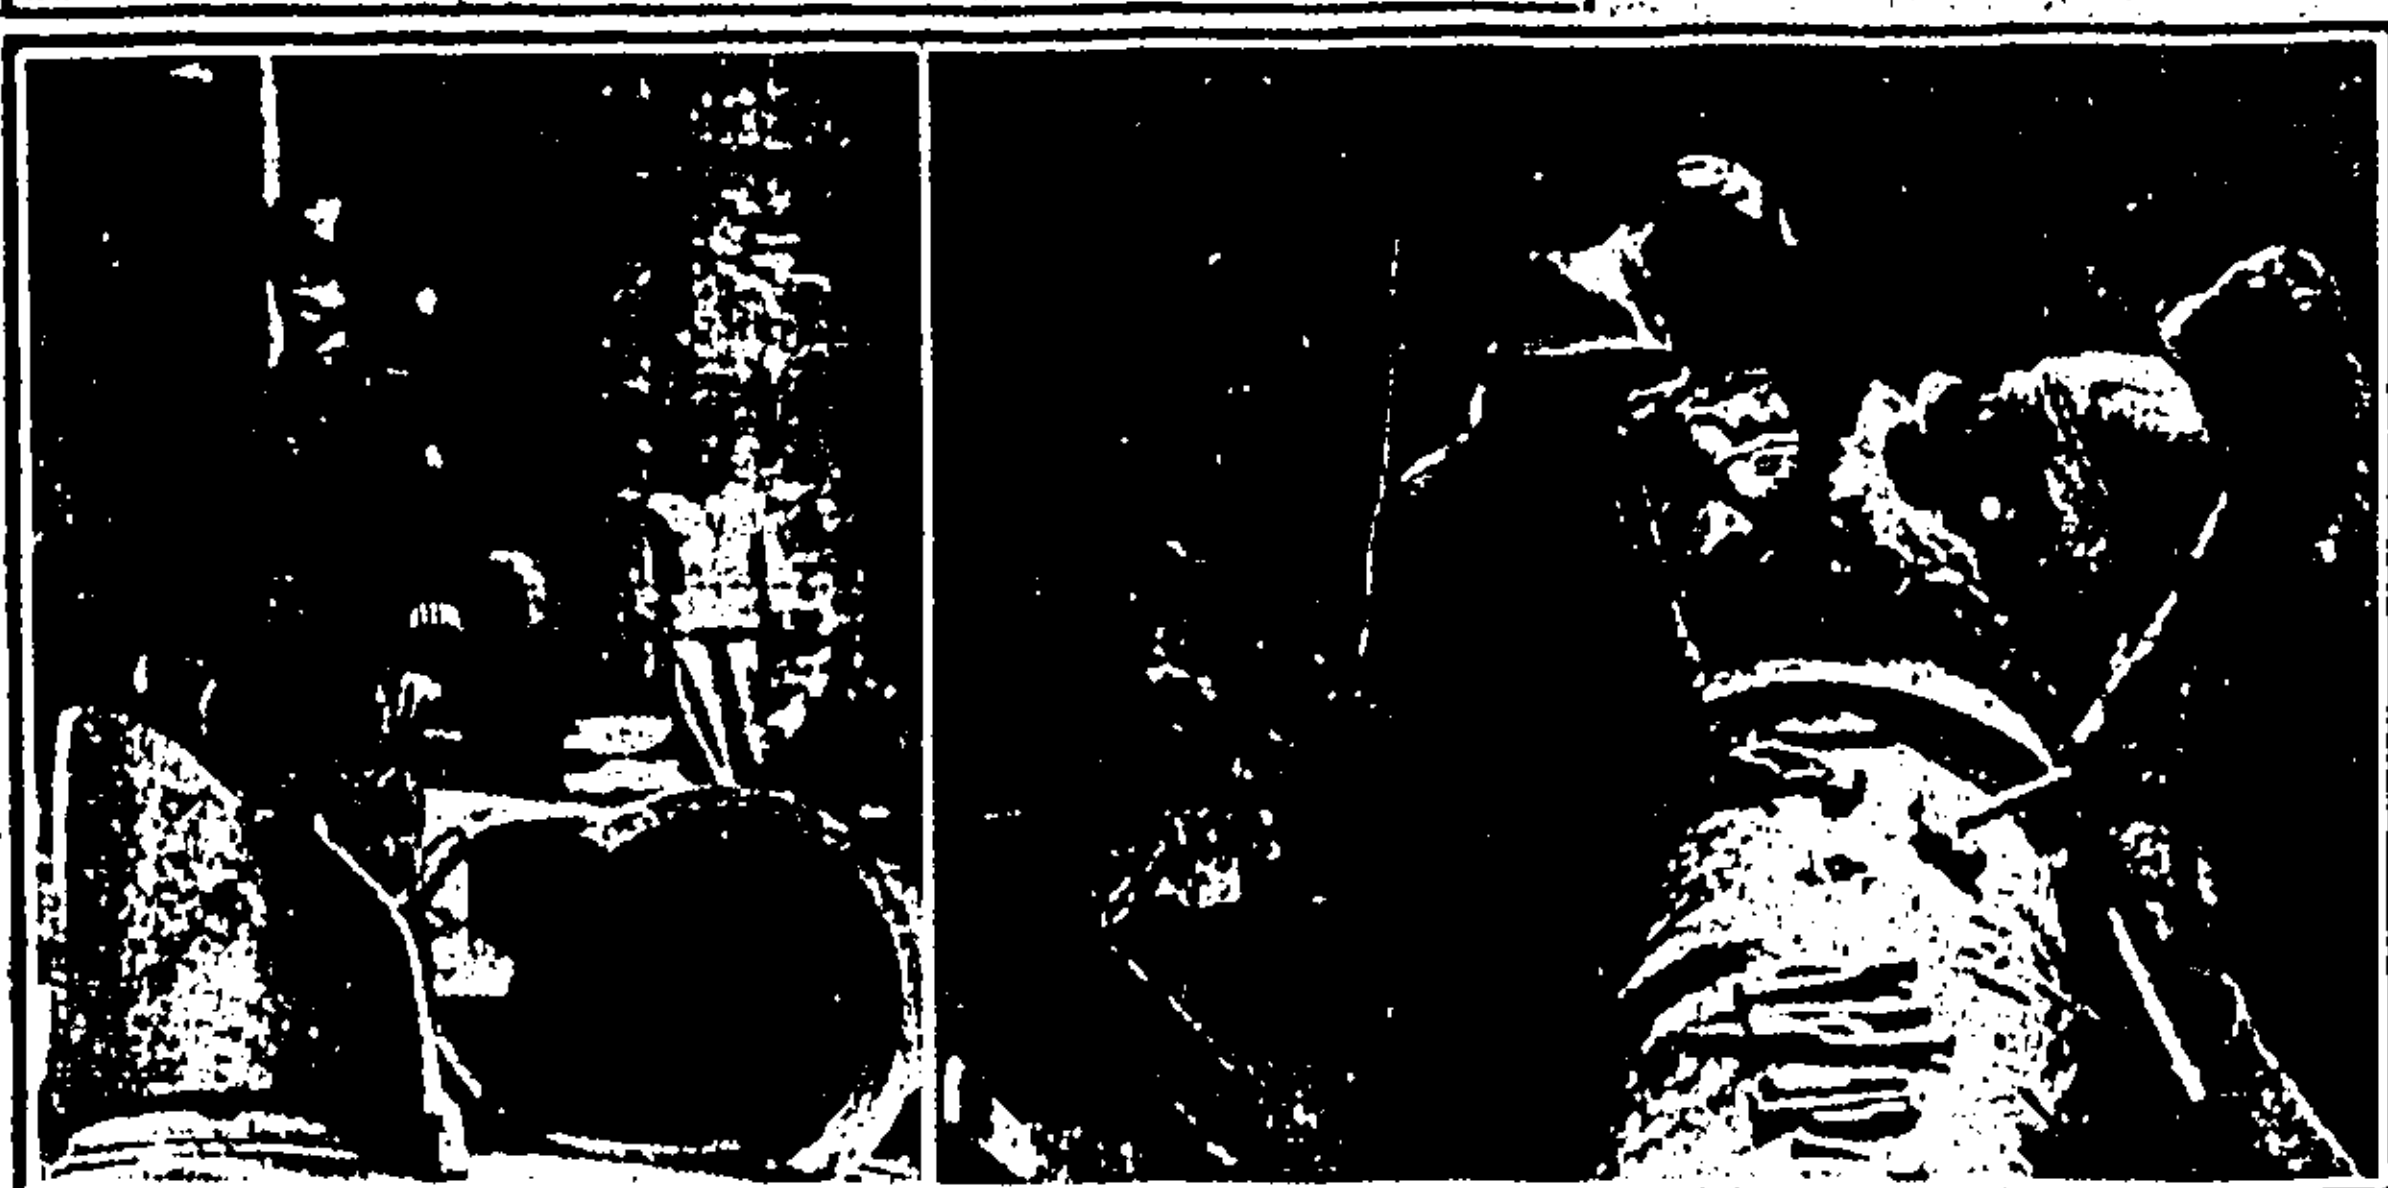

"It wouldn't bore me in the least," the girl told him demurely. Her tears had dried now. The little flare up had only served to heighten her colour. "Wait just a minute. I'll get a scarf for my hair," she said, going back into the darkened house. She paused to scribble a line for her mother and in that instant the telephone rang stridently. Her instant thought, as always, waking and sleeping, was "Dan!" She put one hand to her breast with an unconsciously dramatic gesture and called out to the man in the shadows, "I'll answer that. Hope you don't mind waiting."

Lifting the receiver, she was conscious of an almost unbearable feeling of tension. But it was not Dan's deep voice that came to her over the wire.

There were many interested spectators at the Kiangnan Dock, Shanghai when H.M.S. Sandpiper, which was re-assembled there, was launched. The top picture shows a portion of the attendance during the dedication ceremony, and the lower Mrs. A. C. Mauchan (on left), who named the vessel. She is holding a bouquet sent her by Rear-Admiral R. Hill, S.N.O., Yangtze.

A lake three feet deep was formed on Yangtsepo Road, Shanghai when a main water pipe broke, and the resulting flood, at 75 pounds pressure per inch, dug a tremendous hole in the street. The picture at the left shows the broken section of pipe—large enough for the policeman to crawl through—and the place cracked off. It is one inch thick and hard for even three men to lift, which shows the terrific water pressure. The picture on the right gives an idea of the hole blasted in the road. The perilous electric cables are on the left of the hole while a gas main is on the right, next to the water main.

Bayonets, tear gas bombs, clubs and side arms—these were the weapons the state of Wisconsin turned against farm pickets to break the milk strike. With an agreement reached to terminate the strike, state officials are investigating charges that Chicago gangsters fomented strife in an effort to get control of dairy plants. These pictures show the rout of pickets by civilian-garbed guardsmen at Durham Hill, near Milwaukee. The guardsmen are shown above in a charge reminiscent of "over the top" days. Below, the guardsmen are shown deploying behind a tear-gas bomb attack to rout pickets from their headquarters in a farm home. Another serious clash occurred at Shawano.

Walter Singler, above, organizer of the Wisconsin milk strike, is being hunted by state officials, who say he will be "held responsible for casualties." Singler has been missing since the strike began.

One of the many captives of the Battle of Shawano is shown here as he was brought in by the "gas squad" of Wisconsin's civilian-garbed guardsmen after a bomb attack.

One of the scores of casualties in the Shawano, Wis., milk strike battle is shown here as guardsmen gave him first aid. The victim, a strike picket, suffered a fractured skull from the blow of a club.

CAN YOU DO THIS WITH YOUR TOOTHBRUSH?

ONLY THE Tek SHORT HEAD CAN DO IT

THIS IS A TEST FOR A TOOTHBRUSH. The arch that your thumb and forefinger make is similar to the arch of your teeth. Only the brush that fits the one can fit the other. AND ONLY TEK'S CAN DO IT.

Tek fits its full face into every curve of the arch—upper and lower. Relieved of the usual load of useless bristles, Tek's short head reaches everywhere, cleans everywhere. In its rapid passes Tek gives the gums a mild massage—gentle to begin with, until they become firm and strong and of a healthy colour. But only Tek can do it, because of its shape and size. Get used to Tek and you'll use no other. Sold surgically clean in a sealed carton. See that the carton is unbroken. Six colours. Hard or medium, also extra hard (unbleached).

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 3,890,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports: "After an irregular and dull day the market rallied near the close due to London reports that the U.S. dollar might be pegged at around 4.40 to the pound. Favourable steel and electricity news also helped to stimulate the market. The Iron Age Magazine report that the primary cause of demand is the piling up of releases against low-priced second quarter contracts as June 30th deadline approaches. Persistence of heavy retail automobile demand is surprising even the auto trade. Indications are that June automobile output will exceed that of May with the movement of steel to the auto industry continuing at the present pace through most of July. Cable received this morning from Swan, Culbertson & Fritz, New York: "Most stocks moved narrowly with oils strong. Further strength in oils, motors and harvester issues expected. Cotton: London developments indicating the Government's determination to allow no interference in highest commodity price programme and claims of unexpected response in the Western Cotton belt to the cotton curtailment plan is increasing confidence in higher price levels. The market was quiet but very steady. Wheat advanced on insufficient rains and severe crop losses already sustained in the U.S. Northwest and Canada."

A SHOCK FOR THE CONFERENCE

The Hon. Mr. Stanley Bruce, Australia's principal representative, is liable to become highly unpopular in World Economic Conference quarters. His outlook tends towards the practical and that will hardly do. His outspoken speech reported yesterday, describing as a terrible policy the suggested curtailment of the world's production of almost every primary commodity, represents a dangerous challenge, dangerous because it aroused enthusiasm among delegates of the smaller States and may lead to further attacks upon the programmes of the vested interests. Mr. Bruce softened the blow by admitting that, for immediate purposes, consent might have to be given, but the damage was already done. He had bluntly exposed the principal weaknesses of the policies within the contemplation of the most powerful groups and if the seed thus sown grows into revolt, the Conference may yet be compelled to face the raw realities of the existing situation. Mr. Bruce's conception of the world's needs may have sounded a trifle strange coming from the representative of a country which has raised its tariff walls to a height scarcely surpassed anywhere else in the world, but it did not miss the truth of the situation. Restriction of production finally means condemning all but the money-barons to a cheerless existence because of a rigid insistence upon existing artificial values and codes. The amazing callousness to which the abstract reasoning of financial experts can lead is shown by the regret of economists that "such vast strides have been made by power-production during the past twenty years that never again will there be a sufficient scarcity of goods to cause a prosperity-breeding boom." The implication is that unless there are people who do not know where to turn for their next pound of bread, there cannot be profits for money-making circles. The resistance to efforts to contract supplies is not solely based upon this score, however. It can as easily be argued that, in the last analysis, the method will defeat itself. In the measure that production is reduced, will new unemployment be created, lessening the demand for the reduced production and requiring further drastic cuts in order to maintain the artificial price level. The position is the same precisely as with schemes for rationalisation. Rationalisation leads, for all practical purposes, to the same thing. It means that industrialists organise with a view to refraining from producing more than the market can absorb. It means reducing costs at every conceivable point, passing beyond the mere employment of labour-saving and power-saving devices at works, thus eliminating the need for human labour, to embrace avoidance of the middleman. The purchasing power of all concerned in production and distribution is reduced in the fanatical attempt, under the present economic system, to reduce production costs. What is the inevitable result? It is too obvious to require statement. The method is akin to injecting a patient with the virus of his disease in an effort to cure him, if we agree that the cause of the economic crisis is a lack of purchasing power among the consuming classes. There is probably a more fundamental cause, but investigation leads to a new subject, the blind confusion which prevents economists from accepting the fact that the Capitalist system, as we know it to-day, is tottering. Financiers have yet to learn that money is not a debt-creating agency. It is not a commodity. Its true place in human affairs is that of a social mechanism for the orderly production and distribution of goods and services. Until it is relegated to that position, no real progress can be made.

Muzzles or Vaccine?

A set of typically parrot-like answers was given by Mr. T. Megarry to questions by Sanitary Board members concerning the outbreak, or alleged outbreak, of rabies, and the official methods taken to deal with the "menace." One analyses them in vain for some sort of constructive and practical thought. Muzzling and shooting dogs has been the system of the past, so why should we try anything different? That is, in effect, the Government's reply to Mr. Wong Kwong-tin and Dr. Li Shu-fan. To Mr. Megarry it was suggested that inoculation of dogs with anti-rabies vaccine, a distinctive mark to be worn to indicate they have been inoculated would be better than muzzling and shooting. No! Government did not think such treatment would be sufficient. The reason, if any, was conspicuous by its absence. Mr. Megarry admitted the effectiveness of vaccine; he admitted that it was obtainable in the Colony. The professed concern of the Government is the safety of human lives. If then the menace is as great as officialdom would have us believe, would it not be reasonable to expect action along the lines followed during the recent small-pox epidemic? Should not the Government take measures to carry out anti-rabies treatment and also be responsible for the inoculations? Owners would naturally be required to pay for the vaccine, but Government should provide special facilities for the treatment, bringing the cost within the range of the majority of owners, and enabling the Government to keep a check on the animals treated. Mr. Megarry complains of the persistent "surreptitious re-introduction" of the disease into the Colony. The remedy for this, we suggest, is to apply proper restrictions in the New Territories, from where, it is known, our present outbreak emanated. The danger is clearly from there but apparently the Government are going to ignore it just as they prefer the maulin methods of muzzles and guns to humane treatment.

RED RUSSIA'S 50,000,000 CAPITALISTS!

By Dr. EDOUARD LUBOFF

The Soviet authorities are proposing to finance the second Five-Year Plan by internal loans. The first issue of $300,000,000 at par is already announced.

Financial capitalism—a form of capitalism despised and caricatured by Socialists—is certainly booming under the Red Flag. No less an authority than the Pravda, the guardian of Communist purity, actually boasts of the growing strength of the individual bondholders. The rentier army in Russia, we are told with every sign of approval and jubilation, has grown from eight millions in 1929 to forty millions in 1932. In other words, one out of every four citizens of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is a financial capitalist, a "coupon cutter." And the latest loan is expected to swell the number by at least another ten millions.

Let us, however, not make the mistake of accepting these boasts at Moscow's own valuation. The rentiers are a fact, of course, but neither their origin nor growth is any indication of prosperity or even of ordinary normal well-being. Red capitalists are made by compulsion; they are the most unwilling "coupon cutters" in the world, and millions of them would prefer an immediate addition to their ration of bread or butter or meat to all the chances in the lottery loans or the guaranteed dividends on each bond.

The Soviet authorities have certainly shown ingenuity in their financial sharp practices. Their internal loans are a clever disguise behind which the tragically small wages of Russia's workers are reduced still further, thereby curtailing their purchasing power and consumption. The people are ill-fed and ill-clothed, but the Soviet Chancellor of the Exchequer compels them to subscribe to his loans and sees to it that the payments for the bonds are deducted from their miserable wages.

REASON FOR LOANS.

So far, the only reason for all internal loans—the rubles have no value outside Russia—was dumping. By taking $580,000,000 in rubles from the people through the compulsory loans issued in the course of the first Five-Year Plan period, Moscow was able to withdraw goods to that amount from home consumption to dump all over the world. There was no other reason for these loans; the money obtained is of no value outside, and is entirely unnecessary inside. The workers and the peasants can always be paid with rubles, which can be printed as and when desired, while all other supplies are owned and controlled by the Government and can easily be transferred from one department to another without the use of currency as such.

Stalin could, of course, reduce the purchasing power of the people by other and more direct means, but this would reveal his weakness and might eventually lead to his downfall. Loans, lotteries, and the bait of interest are safer and more certain in the long run.

The new loan is being placed on very attractive terms. Subscribers are offered the choice of two kinds of bonds. One is the so-called "non-losing" bond, every holder of which must in the course of the next ten years win a prize; about $20,000,000 is offered as prizes. The other bonds carry coupons entitling holders to an interest of 10 per cent. on the face value of their bond.

Ostensibly the money is to be used to finance the Second Five-Year Plan. Actually another attack is being made on the wages of the workers, salaries of the employees, and earnings of the peasants. Translated into simple figures it means that between now and the end of the year earnings in Russia will be reduced by at least one-twelfth—accepting the average earnings at the highest, or 100 rubles a month.

The question of dumping is, of course, much more complicated today, as most countries have been safeguarding themselves, and Soviet exports have slumped tremendously. It is suggested, therefore, that the new loan is not so much an attempt at renewed dumping as an attempt to hide from the people in Russia the serious shortage of all kinds of commodities and to minimise, at least politically, the possible effects of the expected famine.

ARMY OF CAPITALISTS.

Another suggestion is that the new loan with its "all winners" chances and high rate of interest is intended to provide an exciting interlude to distract public attention from serious problems and deficiencies.

Whatever the real reason for the new loan, it is clear that it is neither intended nor is it necessary for the purely domestic financing of the second plan, the money for which have already been estimated and earmarked.

It is, however, amusing to contemplate that by the end of the year Socialist Russia will have an army of 50,000,000 people drawing dividends in the approved capitalist style.

HOW THE DEATH DUTIES CRIPPLE INDUSTRY

BY RONALD STAPLES,
EDITOR OF "TAXATION"

Few people who are not directly concerned can realise the devastating effects of the death duties, not only on those who are unfortunate enough to have to pay them, but on every form of industrial activity.

One or two examples of actual cases will show how the present system of excessive death duties operates against the best interests of the State. The owner of an estate worth $250,000 just after the war desired to make provision for his widow to receive not less than $20,000—on his death after the payment of a legacy of $10,000 to each of his four children. Owing to the increase in the death duties in the meantime, however, the widow would receive less than $14,000 if her husband died in the current year.

The mental burden on the industrialist who realises that he must make provision for death duty payments if possible during his lifetime has on industry a psychological effect of the greatest importance. The whole policy of his business may be cramped and natural expansion retarded, to the disadvantage of himself and his

The Very Idea!

TEST IN PEACE

By Edward Kelly, R.L.P.

WE have just seen the published extracts from Larwood's book on the Australian cricket tour. It appears that Mr. Larwood discovered, during his visit to Australia, a specie of animal known as the barracker.

Next time the English eleven visits Australia there'll have to be a different order of things. Too much of a game is being made of cricket.

When the next series starts, we may expect a cable something like this from Reuters:

ASPIRIN TEST

Thrilling Contest of Loving Kindness.

BRADMAN A DUCKY.

WHEN the umpires strolled silently on to the grounds yesterday, the spectators waved their hands and let fly their captive balloons in happy anticipation.

Advancing to the middle of the pitch and toss, the white-coated officials dropped the pin, which was heard distinctly from every corner of the ground.

Mr. Jardine had won the toss with his rubber penny, and decided to bat. The Australians entered the field in three mourning coaches fitted with pneumatic tyres.

"D.B. Jardine, Esq." was the first name posted on the scoring-board with rubber-shafted drawing pins. The English skipper was met at the gate by Mr. Woodfull, who presented him with a bouquet of pansies. Mr. Sutcliffe was given a bottle of scented hair oil, and took Mr. Oldfield's arm to the crease.

Mr. Woodfull then tossed the ping-pong ball to Mr. O'Reilly, not without a certain amount of effort, as the wind was fairly strong. In fact, at one stage the M.C.C. captain felt very much inclined to appeal against the wind.

After two overs, Mr. Sutcliffe drew the leg umpire's attention to Mr. Oldfield, who, he said, was breathing down his neck. Mr. Oldfield explained that he was suffering from asthma, so the three shook hands, and the game proceeded with Mr. Oldfield holding his breath and sucking a peppermint drop.

After three hours Mr. Jardine succeeded in scoring a single, and a messenger brought him a note from an admirer in the grandstand, thanking him and generally applauding his action. Mr. Jardine formally bowed his acknowledgment.

The afternoon-tea adjournment was taken in the field. Mr. Woodfull and his charming men handing around the tea and scones.

As darkness was setting in towards the end of play the chaperones for both teams came to the field, and stumps were drawn.

While the band played the National Anthem in the deaf and dumb language, the crowd reverently held its breath.

The rest of this palpitating story will be told in silence, owing to the fact that both teams are now sleeping after their strenuous day on the field.

HUM-DINGER.

Things should hum in football circles next season. We are not quite certain, on examining the proposed new rules, whether the new Council will be composed of twenty-two, twenty-six or thirty members. But 'twill be a goodly number.

We hear that one prominent local footballer on reading the proposed new League rules was found distraught, wandering about the railway track, talking to the little birds.

First suspicion was that he had been hit by a train, but he was later heard to be murmuring "And it only takes nineteen people to fill up a British Cabinet."

He also said something about "Service for Service men," but it was thought that he was again a trifle light-headed.

FROM THE ECONOMIC FRONT.

Yes, my dear friends, you want to know what we have gathered here together for, gathered here from all the ends of the earth. What are we about to do? You may well ask. It is the question we have come here to decide. What are we about to do. Let me tell you, gentlemen, the world cannot wait. We must do something if this world is not to sink into utter chaos, and I have little doubt, little doubt, still having faith in human ingenuity and (softly voice) banking resources, that we shall do it. It will all be plain sailing if we see eye to eye. Gentlemen, we must take steps and take them quickly. (Loud cheers.)

KING FEISAL'S VISIT

ENTERTAINED BY CITY OF LONDON
LIFE GUARDS AS ESCORT

London, June 21. King Feisal of Iraq made an official visit to the City to-day where he was presented with an Address of Welcome by the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London.

The King drove through crowded streets in an open landau accompanied by the Duke of Gloucester and members of his suite. The carriage was drawn by four horses with outriders. The Sovereign's escort of Life Guards escorted the procession.

The ceremony of presenting the Address was followed by a luncheon at which the Lord Mayor, in proposing King Feisal's health, said that the close association between Britain and Iraq rested not only upon the formal provisions of the treaty but upon a firm friendship inspired by mutual prospects and of interests formed in the war and sustained and strengthened in the peace.

KING FEISAL'S REPLY.

King Feisal, replying, made a gracious acknowledgment of the hospitality accorded him and proceeding said that the friendship between their two countries was born out of common sacrifices and had been nourished by rapid developments of mutual interests.

"My country has received much help in the past from Britain and looks confidently for further help in the future and I know she will not look in vain. We need your help to develop the vast resources of our country and the City of London, the birthplace of so many merchant adventurers, has never failed to appreciate the opportunities open to enterprise in distant lands."

GOVERNMENT DINNER.

To-night, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Sir John Simon, gave a dinner at the Foreign Office on behalf of the British Government in honour of King Feisal. Prince George was among the distinguished guests.—British Wire- less.

INNOCENT MEN IN PRISON

RELEASED AFTER TWO YEARS

THREE BROTHERS

Madrid, "Innocent" was the verdict given at the end of a three-days' trial of the three brothers, Miralles, who have been two years in Madrid prison for alleged implication in disorders on May 10, 1931.

Such is the travesty to which the administration of justice has been reduced in Spain. These young students, of respectable families, who were innocent from the beginning, have had to spend all this time in jail for some mysterious reason known only to those in authority.

On May 10, 1931, a number of Monarchists, wishing to form a party, held a meeting which was duly authorised by the authorities. All went well until a crowd of Republicans congregated outside and came to blows with the Monarchists as they came out.

This incident was the spark which led later in the day to a mob attempting to attack and burn down the building of the "A.B.C.", the Conservative newspaper. Many shots were fired and two people were killed. The next day convents, monasteries and churches were blazing all over Spain and martial law was proclaimed.

NO REDRESS.

Among the many arrested were the three Miralles brothers and the editor of "A.B.C.", the latter being released a month later, the Public Prosecutor being unable to find a charge against him. No redress was possible for his illegal confinement.

The three brothers Miralles, despite the Press campaign waged by Spain's most important newspapers and demands for justice by large sections of the country, have had to continue in prison for two years before being tried this week.

After all this time an accusation had to be made, and the Republic's prosecutor charged two of the brothers with homicide in connexion with the two men killed outside the "A.B.C." There was no charge against the other brother, although he has been in prison all this time.

Senor Gatochea, defending counsel, in his final appeal to the jury said: "Think with Lord Macaulay, who said that the felicity, liberty and honour of nations are not found in Magna Charta nor in their lofty institutions but in the integrity and virtue of a dozen of men. I ask for a verdict of not guilty so that these boys may return to their parents to-night."

The public applauded and many embraced the three brothers who are now back home again and receiving thousands of congratulatory messages from all over the country.

THEIR THIRD SUCCESS.

The members of the Portuguese Company, S.V.C., held their fourth annual rifle contest with the Portuguese Company, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, last week and managed to score a third win by a margin of 101 points. The ten best men represented each city, and the conditions of the shoot, given by the Hongkong, were taken from the annual Territorial Rifle Meeting. L/Cpl. Alfredo Aquino, of the Shanghai team, made the best score, with a total of 97 points out of a possible 105.

One man was drowned and several hundred people marooned by a cloud-burst near Liverpool. It rained an inch and a half in half an hour. At one railway station the approaches were submerged to a depth of four feet. A middle-aged cyclist, attempting to ride through the flood, when his machine struck an obstacle in the deepest part of the water, was thrown off and drowned.

CHILDREN'S READING

VICTORIAN AUTHORS STILL POPULAR

HENTY, ALCOTT AND COOPER

What does the "modern child" read? Sidney Webb, Joad, Lenin or Marx, or the Covenant of the League of Nations?

Alas! a shock awaits Utopian educationists when they open the new catalogue of the Children's Club and find out. The catalogue shows that the flower of British childhood at the present day is passionately keen on "What Katie Did Next", and better still, "With Olive in India," "The Wonder Book of Soldiers," and "Tales of the Great War."

Their elder brothers and sisters, equally forgetful of the duty of being "modern," are deep in the discredited Victorians—Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, and Tennyson. The only book by "Darwin" that they care for is entitled "Mister Footie-bo."

Long-forgotten names shine with steady brilliance in this catalogue. Jules Verne going round the moon or under the sea, and Ballantyne exploring his coral island, share the honours of best-selling with Henty's unashamed Imperialism and the Red Indians of Fenimore Cooper.

KATIE.

All Louisa M. Alcott and Sarah Coolidge (the various doings of Katie) are there, partly as period pieces, but chiefly for a more mysterious reason.

As every girl knows, boys' books are thrilling and girls' books are apt to be tedious, and the Children's Book Club has regretfully decided that girl school stories are "in general very badly written and nearly always give a totally unreal impression of school life," and the old favourites have had to be included to swell the number.

In spite of healthy conservatism, the members of the club have their eccentricities. The older ones have a zest for Bernard Shaw and "Mr. Britling Sees it Through."

The youngest—up to eleven—begin the adventure of literature on Tolstoy, Alfred de Musset, and Spenser's "Faerie Queene." Perhaps a certain difficulty in spelling English establishes an instant sympathy between Spenser and the modern child.

THE "TOTE" ON DOG TRACKS

PROPOSALS MADE TO GOVERNMENT

Concrete proposals for the statutory control of dog racing tracks as a condition for the legalisation of totalisators have been submitted to the Government on behalf of the dog racing interests.

The proposals have been approved by a group of members of Parliament, of which Captain Arthur Evans, member for South Cardiff, is Chairman. The Government have been asked to consider them together with the final report of the Royal Commission on Betting, which they will receive before Whitman.

As a condition for the legalisation of totalisators on dog racing tracks, it is proposed that a statutory board similar to the Race-course Betting Control Board should be established for the control of totalisators operating on dog racing tracks.

STATUTORY OBLIGATIONS.

It is also proposed that this measure of control should be accompanied by the following statutory obligations:

1.—Not more than four meetings per week to be held on any dog racing track.

2.—The number of races to be run at each meeting not to exceed eight.

3.—Sunday racing to be prohibited.

4.—No person under 17 years of age to be permitted to bet on a dog racing track.

5.—The offering of prizes for forecasts of race results to be illegal.

Suggestions are also made, it is understood, as to the licensing of tracks with a view to insuring that attention is paid to conditions prevailing in the localities in which it is proposed to open new tracks.

Support For Voluntary Hospitals

THE PRINCE ON A "MIRACLE"

The Prince of Wales, at the annual meeting of the General Council of King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, read the following congratulatory message from the King on the year's work:

The King is glad to hear that the whole of the increased distribution of £300,000 was covered by the income of the year. His Majesty is much gratified at the way in which the public are continuing to support the King's Fund and the voluntary hospitals during this time of financial crisis.

WAR AGAINST DISEASE.

Reviewing the year's work the Prince said:

"I think that we have to record what is little short of a miracle: that, in spite of the financial crisis and the very serious times we are going through, the King's Fund and the voluntary hospitals have had a successful year in 1932, as indeed they have had for some years past."

By the end of 1931, he pointed out, they had been able to increase ordinary distribution to £275,000 and keep a margin in hand. There was reason to fear that some at least of the hospitals would be suffering seriously from the crisis. It was decided to make an immediate increase in the distribution from £275,000 to £300,000. That distribution was a fresh landmark in the history and progress of the King's Fund. In spite of weak spots the hospitals, taken as a whole, had again, for the sixth year in succession, come out with a margin on the right side.

"The hospitals," the Prince added, "have more and more developed the soundest of all methods of attracting and retaining voluntary contributions. This consists in keeping before the public the value of their work in the relief of suffering and the war against disease, and the fact that, in doing this work, they are performing a regular public service which requires in return regular income from the members of the community."

OUT-PATIENT REFORMS.

The Prince referred to the out-patient question dealt with in the report of Lord Onslow's Committee.

The out-patient arrangements committee, he said, had begun their work by taking up the recommendations on two points—standard forms of doctors' letters and hospital time-tables for out-patients. On the first of these, Lord Onslow's Committee reported that the doctors' organisations themselves were contemplating the preparation of standard forms.

"Their action is greatly to be welcomed," the Prince remarked, "and a good deal of experience is being gained. The recommendations on the subject of hospital time-tables were designed to prevent the waiting that now occurs when patients come at the wrong time, or even on the wrong day. The problem here is the best form of general time-table, and the best method of distributing it to those who will find it useful."

"When the Committee come to the actual procedure inside the out-patient departments, they propose to begin with the study of time-saving methods at the dispensary stage. They do this because improvements at that stage, if found to be desirable, could often be carried out without causing consequential changes in the rest of the procedure."

"To that end the trustees were directed in the will to apply one-tenth of his estate in making payment to such universities, colleges, schools, societies, and other entities engaged in making researches in such proportions as they think fit."

The trustees are also to apply the capital of four-fifths of the residue of the estate to similar purposes following the cessation of the life interests therein of the widow, Lady Royce, and Miss Ethel Aubin, who the testator described as having been his nurse for over 20 years, and who had done so much to prolong his life.

Sir Henry Royce LEAVES £110,000

REQUESTS FOR HEALTH RESEARCH

Sir Henry Royce, director of Rolls-Royce, left gross estate valued at about £110,000.

His great aim was to make provision for research for the distribution of knowledge for the purposes of improving the health of, and preventing disease to, the human race.

To that end the trustees were directed in the will to apply one-tenth of his estate in making payment to such universities, colleges, schools, societies, and other entities engaged in making researches in such proportions as they think fit.

The trustees are also to apply the capital of four-fifths of the residue of the estate to similar purposes following the cessation of the life interests therein of the widow, Lady Royce, and Miss Ethel Aubin, who the testator described as having been his nurse for over 20 years, and who had done so much to prolong his life.

JAPAN'S EXPORTS

WORLD PROHIBITION NOT LIKELY

London, June 21. In the House of Commons to-day Capt. Anthony Eden answered negatively the query of Mr. G. Le Mander, Liberal, as to whether consideration would be given the question of a general international prohibition of exports from Japan, following the League of Nations report on the Sino-Japanese question.

Mr. Mander suggested that meetings of the League sub-committee of Twenty-one should be held in public. Capt. Eden pointed out that this did not rest with him.—Reuter.

Cullen

A WickEXCITING FINISH TO BOWLS TIE

H. Nish, 1932 runner-up, obtained easy entry into the third round of the open singles lawn bowls championship yesterday when he defeated J. A. Howe, on the K.C.C. by 21 shots to 4. Howe discovered Nish in his deadliest form, the K.B.G.C. exponent pulling out his best shots to win head after head. A continuance of such form would make Nish a firm favourite for the title this year.

F. Cullen of the Kowloon Dock had a much tougher and most interesting match with J. Chadwick, the K.C.C. representative.

Cullen won by two shots on the 23rd head, but before he obtained the winning point he experienced several anxious moments, particularly towards the close, when Chadwick, taking a new lease of life, bowled his best to reduce a deficit.

Chadwick succeeded in levelling the scores at 19, and then Cullen scored with a rather fortunate wick and scraped home.

Both players indulged in high class bowls and if Chadwick can consider himself unlucky to lose after such a recovery, it must also be recognised that Cullen, through his consistency, deserved his success.

WIMBLEDON "SEEDINGS"

GREAT BRITAIN WELL
TO THE FOREG.P. HUGHES TEAMS UP WITH MRS. HELEN WILLS MOODY

GLENHILL TO PARTNER VINES

London, June 21.

A remarkable revision of players and their order of merit is a feature of the Wimbledon tennis championships "seeding," which has just been issued.

Several new names appear, whilst fresh combinations in the doubles events have added considerable interest.

Great Britain, doubtless as a result of her recent successes in the French Championships and earlier in the Hardcourt Championships of England, has secured greater recognition.

The list of "seeded" competitors, as cabled by Reuter is:

MEN'S SINGLES.

1. Ellsworth Vines (U.S.A.)
2. J. Crawford (Australia)
3. H. Cochet (France)
4. H. W. Austin (Britain)
5. Clifford Sutter (U.S.A.)
6. F. J. Perry (Britain)
7. Jiro Satoh (Japan)
8. H.G.N. Lee (Britain)

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

1. Mrs. H. Wills Moody (U.S.A.)
2. Miss D. Round (Britain)
3. Miss M. C. Scriven (Britain)
4. Mme. Mathieu (France)
5. Miss Helen Jacobs (U.S.A.)
6. Fr. Krahwinkel (Germany)
7. Mlle. Jedzejowska (Poland)
8. Mlle. Payot (Switzerland)

MIXED DOUBLES.

1. E. G. Maier and Miss Ryan
2. J. Borotra and Miss B. Nuthall
3. G. P. Hughes and Mrs. Wills Moody
4. N. V. Farquharson and Miss M. Heeley

MEN'S DOUBLES.

1. J. Borotra and J. Brugnon (France)
2. E. Vines and K. Gledhill (U.S.A.)
3. G. P. Hughes and F. J. Perry (Britain)
4. N. V. Farquharson and V. G. Kirby (S. Africa)

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

1. Miss Ryan and Mme. Mathieu
2. Miss M. Heeley and Miss D. Round
3. Mlle. Sigart and Miss Scriven
4. Miss Nuthall and Mrs. F. Whittingstall

CRAWFORD'S JUMP.

As a result of the "seeding," Britain has three representatives in the Men's Singles, H. G. N. Lee coming in for Jean Borotra, whilst Frank Shields and Sydney Wood of America concede places to Clifford Sutter, their compatriot and Jiro Satoh, the Japanese ace.

Cochet gives place to Vines as No. 1 and Crawford, thanks to his French Championships and Davis Cup achievements, rises from No. 8 to second place. Austin this year is "ranked" above Perry.

Three new players find their way into the women's "seedings." Miss Margaret Scriven, conqueror of Mme. Mathieu comes into third place, and Mlle. Jedzejowska, the Polish star, who made such a deep impression in the spring tournaments in England, is ranked No. 7.

HELEN AND HUGHES.

There are some particularly interesting line-ups in the doubles. The Ellsworth Vines-Wills Moody combination has been broken, and G. P. Hughes will partner the world's leading lady player.

Wilmer Allison and Van Ryn, who last year figured as No. 1 in the Men's Doubles, are not even included, but the South African pair, Farquharson and Kirby occupy fourth place, with Perry and Hughes, the Davis cup pair, as No. 3. Vines and Gledhill team up together at Wimbledon for the first time and have been "seeded" No. 2 to Borotra and Brugnon, the Frenchmen.

That powerful combination, Miss Ryan, and Mme. Mathieu have naturally earned first place in the women's doubles, but Britain have excellent representation in Miss Round and Miss Heeley and Miss Nuthall and Mrs.

G. P. Hughes and F. J. Perry.

Fearnley (Whittingstall), whilst Miss Scriven, another Englishwoman, has entered with Mlle. Sigart and they too have been earmarked.

MATCHES

"C" DIVISION

Two very interesting matches are included in this afternoon's programme in the "C" Division of the tennis league.

The Filipino Club, one of the most improved teams in the league, who a fortnight ago took four sets from the Club de Recrelo, having previously beaten Craigengower, entertain the new C.R.C. combination, whilst the K.C.C. are hosts to the Recrelo, who have made a deep impression in their initial appearances this summer.

Both matches should be productive of good tennis, and the advantage of playing on their own courts may well turn the scales in favour of the Filipinos and the Kowloon Cricket Club.

POLICE TO MAKE START.

The Police, after being idle for three weeks are looking forward to making a start in their programme. They receive a visit from the Kowloon Indian Tennis Club, who, in their last match, defeated the Hongkong Cricket Club, and the Police will have to be on their best behaviour to achieve a victory. The Deutscher Klub, playing at home for the third time in succession, can with some confidence anticipate winning against the Cricket Club. The Germans have already taken the K.C.C. to 3½.

MORE SENSATIONS IN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

London, June 21.

Edward Kyle, the Singapore golfer, gained another success in the British Amateur Championship at Hoylake to-day, when in the third round he defeated Jack McLean of Haydon by one up. A former champion, Martin Smith, went the "way of all flesh" when he met J. Dawson of Troon, who won by one up, but the biggest sensation of the day was the elimination of Ernest Torrance, British Walker Cup captain, who lost at the 21st to A. Thompson of Aldeburgh.—Reuter.

Macauley
To Get His ChanceWILL PROBABLY PLAY IN TEST

London, June 21.

G. C. Macauley, the Yorkshire bowler, who has been skittling out the county teams this season, has been asked by the M.C.C. to attend Lord's on Saturday in case he is needed for the Test match against the West Indies.

It is revealed that Clark, the Northants trundler, who was selected for the England team, has been declared medically unfit by a doctor who examined him to-day.

Clark has strained the muscles of his thigh and has been ordered to rest.

Macauley will probably take Clark's place in the team, but much will depend on the state of the wicket, as Townsend, the Derbyshire spin bowler, has been picked as twelfth man, and may come into the side if the conditions are likely to favour him.

Macauley was selected for one Test match against Australia in 1930, but he failed before his own countrymen at Leeds.—Reuter.

"Oh, Miss Anstice. Yes. How are you?" She put cordiality into her tone. Miss Anstice was an old family friend.

Charles Eustace, lounging against the pillar outside, heard a note of alarm in the quick, terse words that followed.

"What? Yes—yes. Please tell me. Outside Miller's garage just five minutes ago? There must be some mistake. She's at Rissy's! Thank you. I know you won't. Yes, I'll do something about it—at once—good-by—"

All the colour now drained from her cheeks, she returned to Charles Eustace.

"Something terrible—I don't know what to do!"

He put out a brown, lean hand, touching hers. "Tell me. I'll help you."

Eyes big and dark and unseeing, she stared at him.

"It's Kay. She's gone—with some man. Miss Anstice happened to see them. She's not a gossip. She's a real friend. They had bags, she said. The man was asking the best way to Waynesboro."

"Good Lord!" Charles said. "Jump in. I know that road well. We can catch up with them."

Blinding the scarf she had picked up from the hall table about her head with stumbling fingers, Monnie obeyed. The scent and sound of a June night received them, as the motor purred and the powerful little car plunged down Denny street.

Everywhere—everywhere were little groups on porch and lawn. Lights in little houses. Laughter. The music of a radio. Monnie thought, blindly, "Little Kay. Little Kay. I've got to save her."

"Miss Anstice didn't happen to mention what sort of car it was, did she?" inquired Charles, expertly averting to avoid a boy on a bicycle.

"No, she—she—" Monnie's teeth were chattering now, as if with cold. "I'm so frightened," she interpolated. "What if we don't catch up with them? I never can face Mother!"

The calm voice of the man in the driver's seat came to her. "We'll find her," he said. "Don't you worry!"

Ahead, miles ahead, on the country road, Bigelow grinned down at the girl beside him.

"Cooler now, baby? That sure is a hot burg you live in."

Kay said, "Yes, lots cooler." She cast an apprehensive glance back over her shoulder. "Sure nobody saw me when you stopped for gas?"

He had a big, booming laugh—empty, meaningless. He employed it now.

"Baby, don't think about that old burg any more. You've shaken the dust from your shoes. You're slated for big times."

He slipped an arm around her shoulders. Kay shrank from it.

"Hain't you better watch the road?"

The laugh boomed again. "Don't like one-armed drivers, to you, baby?"

Kay grimaced to herself in the darkness. She'd been a fool to come, she told herself, but she was no quitter. She'd burned her boats. She'd have to keep on going.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Though born in Hollywood, Marion Burns, young hopeful of films, failed to attract the attention of motion picture studios until she had scored success as a leading woman on Broadway in New York. She knows now that the longest way round is the shortest way home.

In New York she was fortunate enough to enlist the interest of David Belasco. She played roles in several productions, including "The Royal Family" and "The Front Page."

Deciding that experience in stock would be of benefit to her, she joined a company playing at the Fulton Theatre in Oakland, as its leading woman. Following this experience she played with other stock companies, including one at Denver, where she remained 22 weeks. Then she went back to New York and played roles in "Broadway," "They Don't Mean Any Harm" and "Intimate Relations."

Then she was offered a screen test by Fox Films, which resulted in a contract.

Her first assignment was an important role in "The Golden West," George O'Brien's latest outdoor romantic thriller, now playing at the King's Theatre.

Others in a noteworthy cast include Janet Chandler, Bert Hanlon, Arthur Plerson, Emmett Corrigan, Edmund Breese and Onslow Stevens. David Howard directed.

"The Wiser Sex"

The highly organized underworld is given a dainty swift kick on the sides in "The Wiser Sex," opening on Sunday at the Queen's Theatre.

And it is the alluring toe of Claudette Colbert which delivers the kick, just in the nick of time to keep a self-styled tough egg from railroadng her fiancée on a murder charge. Miss Colbert portrays the role of a darling of class, who leaves yachts, limousines and liveried servants to meet those people who have just the right kind of evidence to exonerate her fiancée.

Douglas, whom you'll recall if you saw Gloria Swanson's "To-night or Never," is a crusading attorney, who gets himself put on a torrid spot for being enthusiastic about a city cleanup and rather neglectful of his romance with Miss Colbert, if that could happen.

The action reveals just how nicely a female Sherlock can time things when there is vital business, like restoring a juggling romance, at hand.

"The Cohens and Kelly in Trouble" Those who are tired of Depression will find a welcome relief in "The Cohens and Kelly in Trouble" co-starring George Sidney and Charlie Murray, which opens at the Central Theatre to-day.

Among those who add to the laughs are "gravel-throated" Andy Devine, the inimitable Jolynn Howland, Maude Fulton and Henry Armetta, while Frank Albertson and Maureen O'Sullivan lend convincing portrayals as the young lovers.

The story concerns Patrick Kelly, tug boat captain, and Nathan Cohen, retired business man, who comes to see him after an absence of many years. The men are just starting to have their fun when a young revenue officer falls in love with Kelly's daughter, and Kelly hates revenue officers. General complications start the action off. There are yachting trips, rum boat chases, and plenty of other excitement as the plot comes to a more or less happy ending.

"Rome Express"

No better story could have been written for the initial production of the vast new Gaumont-British Studios than "Rome Express." Here is a story full of life and vigour; with interesting detail crammed into every scene and action running throughout, rapidly, yet smoothly, moving to a great climax.

We begin, appropriately, at the departure of the express from the station and finish at the time two criminals "jump" the train as it is leaving the station, until the time one commits suicide and the other reforms, excitement grows gradually more and more intense—the climax leaves you breathless!

There is a missing Van Dyck, the theft of it by a timid criminal, who is murdered by a cruel and callous criminal... there is the accidental discovery of it by a supposed philanthropist, who is really a Scrooge at heart. The fight on the train, ending fatally, the exposure of the runaway lovers, and the suicide (most spectacular) of the real murderer. It is impossible to convey in print the grip of this film, produced as it is with such competence and imagination, such knowledge of the art of thrill building.

The cast has much to do with its success: Esther Ralston, Conrad Veidt, Cadric Harwick, Harold Huth, Gordon Barker and Donald Crisp—just to mention half a dozen—add fresh lustre to their names, that will surely never tarnish. Walter Forde should be proud too, for, as director of "Rome Express," he has established himself as one of the world's front rank directors. It is pleasant to think that this work was carried out in the great British studio English at last holds her own in the field of dramatic films.

"Rome Express" will be shown at the King's Theatre next Sunday.

MARKET.TWO CHINESE BUILDINGS AT
WONGNEICHONG AUCTIONED

Two Chinese tenement buildings at No. 2 and No. 4, Sing Woo Street, Wongneichong, with the site which has an area of 1,620 sq. ft., were sold by public auction in Mr. E.V.M.R. de Sousa's China Rooms yesterday afternoon.

The property is held for a term of 75 years, dating from July 9, 1912, the Crown rent being $4.22. Bidding was slow and confined to two bidders. From $15,000 the price was raised to $16,800, at which sum the property was knocked down to Mr. Poon Pok-yook.

Property Withdrawn.

At Messrs. Lammer's Auction Rooms, two other Chinese houses, No. 63 and No. 55, High Street, West Point, were put up for sale by order of the mortgagees, but were withdrawn without any bids. The upset price was $27,500.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

While everyone is striving for perfection in contract bidding, I am always thankful for the fact they have not been able to make contract a mechanical game.

Even at duplicate, Lady Luck has a lot to do with the final result. If you are not getting the breaks, you don't win. Sound partnership bidding and good play, of course, produce the best results in the long run, but don't feel discouraged because you get a bad result or a bad break on one hand.

Take for example the following hand—one pair bid for a slam and, due to the fact that a club was not opened, they made it. As a matter of fact, by employing a clever squeeze, a grand slam can be made without a club opening.

The Bidding

The correct bidding on the hand would start with passes by South and West. North would bid one heart. I do not believe in pre-emptive bidding, therefore I would

♠ A	♥ A-K-J-10-8-5-3-2	♦ 10-4	♣ 10-5
♠ J-8-6-5-3	♥ None	♦ 8-6-3	♣ K-J-9-6-3
♠ NORTH	♥ EAST	♦ DEALER	♣ SOUTH
♠ 7-2	♥ 9	♦ A-Q-7-4	♣ 8-2
♠ 9-4	♥ Q-7-6-4	♦ A-Q-J-2	♣ 8-2

not recommend that North open with a four heart bid. With four losing cards, he cannot open with a forcing two or three bid.

After the bid of one heart by North, South should bid two hearts, showing normal trump support and practically guaranteeing two entries into his hand. North can now go to four hearts.

At one table North opened the bidding with four hearts and South, his partner, took him to six.

Supposing that East opens the nine of trump, declarer wins with the ace, leads the ten of diamonds. When East covers with the king, win with the ace in dummy, lead a spade and win with the ace.

Lead all of the hearts but one, leaving the declarer's hand with the deuce of hearts, the four of spades and the ten and five of clubs. This will leave East with the king of spades and three diamonds to the nine spot. Dummy will hold the queen, jack and deuce of spades and the queen of spades.

The last heart is led—and East is squeezed. If he drops the king of spades, dummy's queen will be good, so he must let go of a diamond, unguarding that suit. Declarer discards dummy's queen of spades and the three diamonds in dummy are good. A grand slam has been made. However, only four odd should be bid on the hand.

WASHINGTON NOW STIFFENING

DELEGATES CONFUSED

Washington, June 21.
A stiffening, rather than a relaxation of the American delegation's attitude at the London Conference is expected as a result of Professor Moley's mission. He is going to London as the President's own liaison officer.

Congressmen still remaining in Washington, are of the opinion that the Conference is in a sorry plight, but while the feeling against the French is strong, there is also some disposition to blame the inconsistency of the American delegation and reports suggesting a possible French withdrawal from the Conference are deplored.

Officials declare that France and other gold countries are giving undue prominence to the stabilization of currencies and argued that the Conference should continue, although if a dominant proportion of nations favoured an adjournment the American delegation would acquiesce.

President Roosevelt said he was determined to implement plans for the raising of commodity prices in America and throughout the world. His administration believes the time has come to drive bargains with other nations and to ensure them conforming with the American domestic recovery programme, especially with regard to the raising of prices, undertaking extensive public works and procuring credit expansion through the central banks.

"In the event of other nations failing to co-operate, President Roosevelt believes America must pursue a lone path.—Reuter's Special.

U. S. Misunderstood.

London, June 21.
A complaint that the actions of the American delegation to the World Economic Conference are constantly being misconstrued, and the delegates' time taken up with correcting wrong impressions was made by the American Secretary of State and leader of the American delegation, Mr. Cordell Hull to-day.

Mr. Hull declared that when Professor Moley arrived, he would then say whether he himself would return to America.

The fact that Professor Moley might be replacing Mr. Hull is interesting in view of Senator Couzens' statement that America must choose between a nationalist and internationalist programme, and Professor Moley is an isolationist, while Mr. Hull is well-known to be an internationalist.—Reuter's Special.

CONFERENCE CONFUSION.

Delegates Lose Way In
Maze of Committees.

London, June 21.
A "family tree" for the Economic Conference, has been issued for the guidance of delegates and experts in consequence of the growing number of ramifications. From the original main body there have already developed two principal Commissions, from which sub-Commissions, Committees and sub-Committees have rapidly sprouted, until the members appointed thereto hardly know to which bodies they are attached.

This morning's proceedings covered a multitude of matters. One outstanding was the receipt of a draft Protocol of economic non-aggression from the Soviet delegation, following upon M. Litvinoff's earlier expressions. The protocol draft was immediately referred to the sub-Committee on Economic non-Aggression.

A formidable tongue-twister on the agenda of the Economic Commission—phytopathological questions—created mingled shyness and silence among the delegates. The Chairman passed on to a safer-sounding matter, public works.

Increasing Prices.

Leading Japanese, Swiss and Italian representatives at the Conference spoke to Mr. Neville Chamberlain's recent resolution favouring an increase in commodity prices. Mr. T. Sushima, Finance Commissioner of Japan, while accepting the British resolution in principle, considered that in its present phrasing it might lead to inflation.

M. Bachmann, President of the Swiss National Bank, urged that the Conference, as a first measure, should proclaim the principle of a general return to the gold standard, particularly by Great Britain and America.

REVOLT
SIAM LEADER'S COUP
DETAT

Bangkok, June 21.
Siam has experienced another peaceful revolution overnight. General Phibulphol, Commander-in-Chief of the army, and who led the last revolution restricting the powers of King Prajadhipok, has now turned out the old State Council and declared his intention of establishing a new constitution.

Meanwhile a cable has been sent to the King at Huahin, assuring him of the loyalty of the army and navy and the people in taking this action.
To check the spread of Communism, King Prajadhipok last April dissolved the Assembly and appointed a new State Council to govern pending the elections for the Assembly. The King, assuring the country that it was only a temporary suspension of the Constitution.—Reuter.

EXILED PRINCE'S ROMANCE

MARRIED TO A CUBAN GIRL

CROWDS DEFY DOWNPOUR

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received June 22, 10.55 a.m.)

Lausanne, June 21.

Enormous crowds of eager sightseers defied a steady downpour of rain in order to witness the culmination of the romance of the young Prince of the Asturias and the daughter of a Cuban planter.

The Prince of the Asturias is the heir to the Spanish Throne and a direct descendant of the Roman Emperors.

He was married this afternoon to Senorita Edelmira San Pedro Ochoa, whom he met in Switzerland when both were undergoing treatment for their health.

The civil ceremony was performed in the Town Hall of Lausanne, with the uttering of a few simple words.

PASSPORTS FOR CHURCH.

The couple afterwards proceeded for the religious ceremony to the small church at Ouchy, to which only few guests, close friends of the Prince of the Asturias and the bride, were permitted to attend, bearing personal passports signed by the young Prince.

Having married a commoner against the express opposition of his father, the Prince from now on takes the name of Senor Alfonso de Bourbon and has relinquished all rights of succession.

It is understood that they will pass on to King Alfonso's second son, Don Jaime.—Reuter.

PEKING SHOOTING INCIDENT

OFFICIAL POLICE EXPLANATION

Peking, June 22.

The Peking Public Safety Bureau, reporting on yesterday's shooting incident—which resulted in a protest by the Japanese who alleged that Japanese troops had been fired on—states that two shots were fired.

They were fired by a man in uniform during a quarrel with another Chinese and were fired solely for the purpose of frightening the other Chinese.

No-one was struck by the bullets.—Reuter.

STUDENTS IN REVOLT

NAZI NOMINATION FOR PRIMACY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received June 22, 1.45 p.m.)

Berlin, June 22.

Hitler's relentless campaign for bringing every sphere of German life under Nazi domination has received a serious rebuff for the first time, as the result of an attempt to invade religion.

A fierce quarrel is now in progress in the German spiritual world as a result of the Nazi interference.

Hitler's desire, it appears, is to replace the Primate of the Evangelical Church, Dr. Bodelschwingh, by an adherent of the Nazi Party, Dr. Mueller.

A meeting was summoned by Dr. Mueller's Protestant supporters last night at the Berlin University with the object of passing a resolution demanding the retirement of Dr. Bodelschwingh.

STUDENTS REVOLT.

The effort failed completely of its purpose, however. Ninety per cent of the students left the meeting and re-assembled outside where they unanimously passed a resolution declaring their willingness to accept Hitler's political leadership, but not his religious leadership.

Germany is also awaiting with interest the repercussions of Captain Goering's raid on Herr Hugenberg's headquarters.—Reuter.

DISORDERS IN LONDON

ANTI-NAZI SCENE AT STATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received June 22, 10.55 a.m.)

London, June 22.

Disorderly scenes reminiscent of those which accompanied the departure of Dr. Rosenberg, the Nazi envoy, from London, were witnessed at Liverpool Street Station last night, marking the departure from London for Berlin of Baron von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, and another German delegate to the World Economic Conference.

A number of youth carrying red banners, showered leaflets on the roofs of the carriages of the train at the station.

Baron von Neurath's train moved out to the accompaniment of catcalls and shouts of "Down With Fascism," and "Down with Hitler and his Murder Gang."—Reuter.

C.N.C. SHIPS SAIL FROM CANTON

UNABLE TO DISCHARGE CARGO

It is understood that the four C.N.C. ships which have been held up in Canton, unable to discharge their cargo owing to a strike of stevedores and cargo coolies, have now sailed, still loaded.

The strike of the seamen aboard the s.s. Fatsan continues. Efforts were made to induce the seamen of the Tsinan, Shantung, Sinkiang and Chihua to walk out, but they refused. They do not believe that the strike will be broken.

BRITISH TENNIS VICTORY

GERMAN GIRLS BEATEN

GREAT DAY FOR FR. KRAHWINKEL

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received June 22, 12.45 p.m.)

London, June 21.

Although Great Britain beat Germany in the annual women's international tennis match at Bournemouth to-day, England's leading representatives did not show up in a very favourable light.

The Englishwomen won by seven matches to five, yet only Dorothy Round scored a success in the outstanding results.

Fraulein Krahwinkel, Germany's No. 2 player was in brilliant form, beating in turn Miss Mary Heeley and Miss Round in straight sets.

Miss Heeley, after putting up a great fight in the first set, which she eventually lost at 7-5, was totally eclipsed in the succeeding set and failed to win a game.

Fr. Krahwinkel, meted out similar treatment to Miss Round. The first set went to twelve games before the German girl broke through, but in the next she ran away to win at 6-1.

DOROTHY'S VICTORY.

The finest British success was that of Miss Round, against Fraulein Aussem. The English girl had a terrific struggle in the first two sets, but went away with the third in comfortable manner.

She opened by winning at 8-6, and tried very hard for a straight sets victory. The German player, however, went on to win the twelfth game. In the deciding set, Miss Round exerted severe pressure, and driving beautifully and backing her ground strokes up with crisp volleying, captured the set at 6-1.

Fraulein Aussem took her revenge against Miss Heeley. The first set was evenly contested and won by the visitor at the fourteenth game, but she met with little or no opposition in the next and for the second time in the series, Miss Round conceded a love set.

The chief results were:

Miss D. Round (Gt. Britain) beat Fr. Aussem 8-6, 5-7, 6-1.

Fr. Krahwinkel (Germany) beat Miss M. Heeley 7-5, 6-0.

Fr. Aussem (Germany) beat Miss M. Heeley 8-6, 6-0.

Fr. Krahwinkel beat Fr. Aussem 6-1, 8-6.

FLIGHT ENDS IN TRAGEDY

FATE OF SPANISH AIRMEN

ONE KILLED IN CRASH

New York, June 21.

Tragedy brought to a close the brilliant Atlantic flight of the Spanish airmen, Captain Barbaran and Lieutenant Collart.

To-day it was learnt that the airmen, who had been missing since completing a flight from Seville to Cuba, crashed in the state of Puebla, Mexico, one being killed and the other injured.

The aviators left Seville at 4.45 a.m. on June 10 in an endeavour to beat the British long-distance flight record. They failed in their objective, but succeeded in carrying out a wonderful flight from east to west across the Atlantic.

They landed at Camaguey in Cuba, four thousand miles from Seville after flying the Atlantic in less than thirty-six hours.

Their machine was a bi-plane, and carried petrol sufficient to last for 48 hours. The airmen were forced to battle against stiff winds for the greater part of the journey. After a short rest at Camaguey, they again set off and were missing for some time, the discovery of their fate being made to-day.—Reuter.

LIEUT. COLLART KILLED.

Later.

The airmen killed in the disaster was Lieutenant Collart.

Captain Barbaran was very gravely injured and is now lying in a comatose condition. The machine fell into a ravine in the Malinche Mountain at a height of 11,000 feet.—Reuter.

FORMER SHIPPING FIGURE

SIR THOMAS STOREY PASSES AWAY

(Our Own Correspondent).

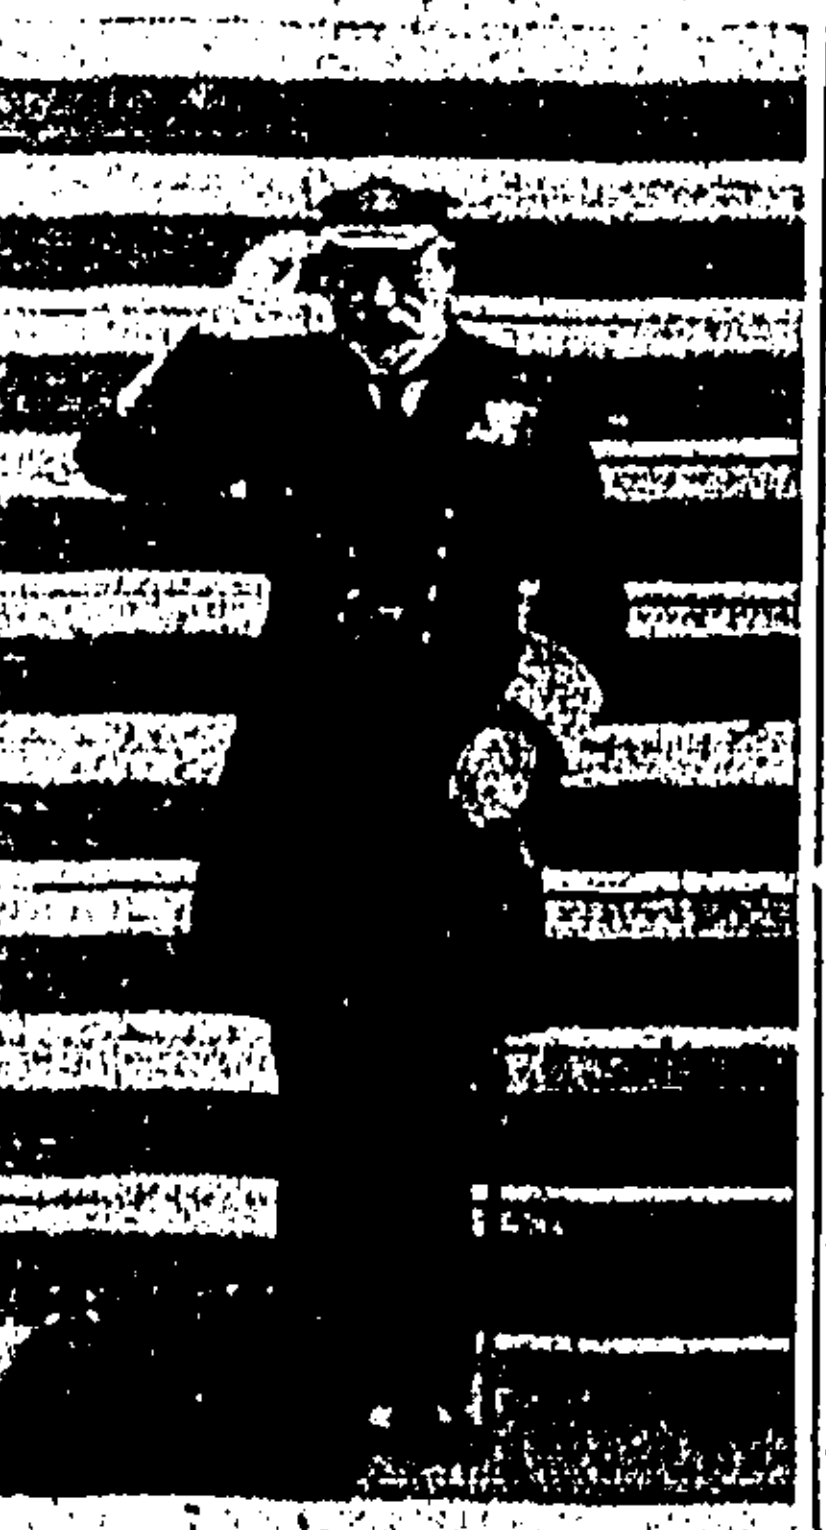

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received June 22, 4.50 p.m.)

London, June 21.

A figure well-known in London maritime circles has passed away in the person of Sir Thomas James Storey, K.B.E., whose death at the age of 82 is announced.

Among the positions he occupied at one time or another were the chairmanships of Lloyd's Register of Shipping (1925-8); British and Foreign Marine Insurance Co. Ltd., (London Board); The Liverpool Underwriters Association; The London Institute of Underwriters; and the Average Adjusters Association.

His wife pre-deceased him by 11 years.

His Majesty the King celebrates the anniversary of his Coronation.

Silver Stabilisation Opposed By Shanghai Bankers

GOVERNMENT ON CONGESTION

THE OPIUM-DIVAN CAMPAIGN

Facts relevant to the overcrowding of Hongkong prisons were revealed in Legislative Council this afternoon when the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, asked questions regarding the release of prisoners before expiration of their prison terms.

The answers to the questions were—

A number (of prisoners) have been released and it may be necessary to release more. Those selected are under orders of deportation from the Colony.

DAILY AVERAGES.

The daily average number of prisoners in Victoria Gaol in May 1932 was 626, May 1933—927; in Laichikok, May 1932—355, May 1933—457.

The total number of persons received into prison for hawking offences were May 1932—54; May 1933—166.

For other minor offences, i.e. terms of imprisonment of one month or less for offences other than hawking—May 1932—203, May 1933—257.

The latter figure includes a number of persons convicted for opium offences and it should be stated that these are only treated as "minor" in a relative sense, i.e. they are short sentence opium convictions.

One juvenile was sent to prison in May 1932, and one in May 1933.

OPIUM OFFENCES.

The increase is attributed largely to the greater number of convictions for opium offences—46 persons were sent to prison for such offences in May 1932 and 228 in May 1933. On 20th June there were in prison 488 persons convicted for opium offences.

The history of this abnormal increase in opium convictions is as follows—

In accordance with the recommendations of the Bangkok Opium Conference this Government has replaced most of its licensed retailers of opium by Government shops. It has also as a precaution against the dissemination of illicit opium under forged or reused Government labels introduced the tube-system, the Government's supply being obtained from the tube-packing plant of the Straits Settlements monopoly.

TUBES NOT POPULAR.

Neither the shops nor the tubes have been popular with smokers here and a very heavy decrease in sales of Government opium has occurred, which in the light of past experience the Imports and Exports Department could only regard as indicating a corresponding growth in the consumption of illicit opium, and of the divans in which it is smoked. A special campaign against divans has therefore been instituted and the results of which have fully justified the Superintendent's fears. The effects on the Gaol population are unfortunate, but we are pledged to keep opium smoking in bounds with a view to its ultimate confinement to smokers of Government opium, who can first be registered, then rationed and finally eliminated.

U.S. EXPENDITURE EXAMINED.

London, June 21.

The first Lord of the Admiralty Sir Eyre Monnell, replying to a Parliamentary question said his attention had been drawn to the announcement that President Roosevelt had authorised the expenditure of $50,000,000 for building warships under the London Treaty. The total expenditure approved by Britain in this regard was $39,000,000. Up to March 31st last however the total sum so spent was $2,250,000.—Reuter.

SOONG TALKS WITH DALADIER

Paris, June 21.

Mr. T. V. Soong was to-day received by M. Daladier, with whom he discussed the Far Eastern situation. Mr. Soong explained the position from the standpoint of the Nanking Government.

Mr. Soong also visited M. Painleve.

It is understood that together with Dr. Wellington Koo, he is flying to London to-morrow morning.—Reuter.

SOVIET BORDER EMERGENCY

Harbin, June 22.

Russia's policy of preparedness in the Far East is leading to further interesting developments in the Maritime Province.

Following the erection of strong defensive works along the Amur River, including machine-gun nests and pill-boxes at the Sungari Delta and fortifications over a wide area in the Blagovestchensk district, a comb-out of civilians has commenced.

It is learned that all "unreliable" Soviet citizens in the frontier zones are being rounded up and are being deported to districts in West Siberia.

TANKS AND GAS UNITS.

Meanwhile, large U.S.S.R. forces have been stationed on Lake Hing-kaihu. The forces are powerfully equipped with all modern weapons of war, including tanks and gas units.

They are being concentrated in the vicinity of Barabash, opposite Suifenho, the extreme easterly point of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and are carrying out manoeuvres daily.

It is evident that the Soviet Government is suspicious of Japan's intentions and is taking every precaution to prevent surprise.—Reuter.

RUBBER OUTPUT RESTRICTION

Amsterdam, June 21.

Satisfactory progress is reported to have been made at a meeting of the Committee of the International Association of Rubber Growers.

Optimistic views are expressed regarding the chances of joint international action.

In the British House of Commons, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister said that no negotiations are proceeding between the British and Dutch Governments although the producers themselves are holding discussions.

He added that no request for negotiations had been received from the Dutch Government.

BRITAIN SILENT ON POLICY

WAITING ON AN AGREEMENT

Silver rehabilitation efforts have suffered a distinct setback.

In London, Senator Key Pittman's scheme has been shelved.

Shanghai bankers have cabled to Mr. T. V. Soong urging him against lending any assistance to efforts to raise the price of the white metal.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received June 22, 4.50 p.m.)

Shanghai, June 22.

Chinese bankers in Shanghai are definitely opposed to the plans taking shape in London for raising the value of silver, according to a cable addressed to Mr. T. V. Soong by the Chinese Bankers' Association yesterday.

It is understood that a long meeting of the Association was held at which the pros and cons of the silver rehabilitation proposals were discussed.

BANKERS' ARGUMENT.

Finally it was decided to send a cable to Mr. Soong deprecating the measures contemplated for artificial stimulation of silver prices.

It is pointed out in the cable that the amount of silver in China is only sufficient for home circulation in China and the country is therefore unable to afford the exodus of the metal to foreign countries, an exodus which would inevitably follow an increase in the value of silver.—Reuter.

THE OLD BUGBEAR.

London, June 21.

Senator Key Pittman's silver proposals have been shelved until it is possible to reach an agreement between the silver producing countries and others to prevent dumping on the market.

The old issue of the Indian Government's surplus stocks is still the bugbear.—Reuter.

GOVERNMENT SILENT.

London, June 21.

Replying to a question in Parliament regarding the raising of the value of silver Mr. Hore-Bellisha, for the Treasury, said that the various views taken on the silver problem would receive careful consideration, but the Chancellor of the Exchequer did not think it desirable to make any further statement pending the discussion on the matter which were taking place at the World Economic and Monetary Conference.—British Wireless.

YOUR CHILDREN

Let's All Turn
"Sun-Worshippers"

By Olive Roberts Barton

The sun is here. Let us turn sun-worshippers while we may. The winter has been long and sunless except in the southernmost states where, we hear, even they have lacked their usual quota of bright days.

Do we need sun? We do, and the children do—everybody does. Every living thing almost except mushrooms needs the rays that sustain life and defeat illness.

After a long winter our grandmothers used to get out the sulphur and molasses, brew sassafras tea and concoct beverages that were supposed to do something to the blood. What they did, we must suppose, was to supply that mysterious vitamin "D" that is really sun-storage.

Nothing Equals Sunshine.

We give it to the children in the form of cod-liver oil through the winter months so that they have a first-rate defense against lack-of-sun diseases such as rickets. But even so, nothing can take the place of the sun itself, the source of life. Why shut ourselves and the children away from it? Yet it almost seems as if human beings, especially in the cities, regard it as a merely incidental thing, like putting on a bit of jewelry when convenient.

Babies get sunbaths of course nowadays most of the winter through, indoors and under the direction of a doctor. Then they reach the age of two or three and what happens? Perhaps they get a walk everyday all bundled up, but the only sun that really touches their bodies is that which touches the face. Fresh air is fine but it is not sun.

Must Reach the Skin.

Sunlight through a window pane is of little use. It is warm and cheery but that is about all. There should be nothing between the body and the direct rays of Old Sol.

I believe it is a splendid idea to give all young children or weak ones an exposure once a day. It is cold outdoors still, too chilly to go out without wraps, at least too chilly in most places to get out sun suits. They are fine for later on, however.

In the meantime with the window open and protection from draughts, the nude bath may be easily taken.

There is one thing to remember. First exposures should be only five minutes long and then slowly worked up to a longer period each day. It is well to ask the doctor. It depends, as do most things with children, upon age, strength, condition and local climate.

Use Good Judgment.

Just as soon as possible when it is warmer, get them into abbreviated sun suits for a short time each day and send them outdoors. When summer comes they can stay out a great part of the time, but not too long when it is hot.

It needs judgment. Each mother must figure out how safe it is. She must not risk cold or dampness. And even the sun itself is a powerful enemy if we are not careful. In summer there may be danger in the other extreme.

Morning sun before eleven or afternoon sun after three are best for midsummer. Noon heat is too great.

But our problem now is spring. Here in the sun. Don't waste it.

Claire Windsor Favours the Chic Trouser Suit

Claire Windsor

Hollywood—Bicycling has Hollywood by the ears. And every bicyclist has her own idea of what's what in peddling apparel.

Claire Windsor wears chic white trouser suit, with Norfolk jacket, flaring trousers, beret and flat white buckskin shoes. Janet Gaynor peddles in divided-skirted pique dresses, blue ones, with the waists made like polo shirts, throat open, sleeves short.

Ruth Abbot and Leah Ray, wear shorts—Ruth, a polka dotted red and white shirt and shorts suit, and beret; Leah, blue jersey shorts and a cute white shirt pullover sweat-shirt, with tiny puffed sleeves and an anchor on the front of it.

Joan Blondell, wore a two-piece trouser suit of light-blue jersey.

Verna Hillie rides her bike in black velvet trunks, flat-heeled white shoes and white silk blouses, open at the throat and with short sleeves.

Shadows Heighten
Eyes' Allure

By Alicia Hart

Brimmed hats and nose veils on little hats call for intriguing eyes.

Artfully shadowed eyes will look upon summer as a time for romance supreme.

Just a bit of soft green shadow, put on over a mist of cream across the lid, heightens the allure of eyes. Green shadow goes beautifully with the pastel coloured things that usher summer in.

However, if your eyes are blue, you may find blue shadow more suitable. Brown eyes, when the colouring is medium blonde, take to green shadow. When they are dark brown, with chestnut hair or black, then a purplish brown tint on the eyes is fine.

There's a new type of eye make-up suggested for this summer. This consists of using two eye shadows. First you match the colour of your eyes, then you put on a film of green over it to give an effect of life and sparkle.

Don't overdo daytime make-up, even though your hat has a wide brim. Save your best efforts for evening. And don't forget those sparkling new eye shadows that have a metallic effect combined with colour.

Those that have green, with a silvery cast, are almost universally becoming. Have you tried them?

DARLING FOOL

McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONNIE O'DAIR, 30 and beautiful, helps to support her young brother and sister by working in a dressmaker's shop. She is in love with DAVE CARROLL, rich and handsome, but he seems to neglect her for SANDRA LAWRENCE, a member of his own set. HETTY, Sandra's maid, suspects her of "vamping" JIMMY, the chauffeur. CHARLES EUSTACE, new in town, is kind to Monnie and Kay, her younger sister. Kay makes a "pick-up" acquaintance with CHESTER BIGELOW, travelling man, who flatters her, telling her she ought to be in New York.

CHAPTER XIII

Charles said "Hot!" and smiled. He wore no hat and the pallor of his skin was a thing Monnie noted subconsciously. Unlike Dan, who wore his sunburn with a swagger, Eustace never tanned but bore always, in spite of hatless horse-back riding and mornings at golf, a kind of tropic indolence which suited him well. He wore, just now, the most elegant of careless white flannels and a blue coat.

said to the girl sitting on the low step, in the shadow of the honey-suckle vine.

Monnie scarcely stirred. She felt the smile with which she answered him to be a prodigious effort. There seemed to be no life in her at all these days. To-night after a cold supper and after a shower she had slipped into one of her oldest party frocks—a blue lace of two seasons ago, unsuitable she felt for anything but the warmest night in Belvedere. She had not expected visitors but here, on her very doorstep, was the most elegant young man in town! She said with an effort, "Thanks. I don't feel at all cool."

She glanced up at him in the half dark, one flushed cheek resting on a slim, long-fingered hand, her breath coming and going quickly beneath the folds of soft lace. The bodice was cut rather low and the creamy skin of her neck and bosom glimmered above it. Her eyes, shadowed with weariness and heat, looked big and dark under their fringe of heavy lashes.

She asked him to sit down. He made a gesture toward the car in the shadows outside the gate and said slowly, "I'd thought perhaps you'd come for a drive—out where it's cool."

"Mother and Mark have gone to a strawberry festival," Monnie said with apparent irrelevance. "And Kay—Kay's over at Riley's. I wonder if I ought—"

"We'll be back in an hour," Charles said. "Why not?"

She debated this. She had refused to go to the festival. She had said she was too tired but the real reason was her desire to avoid people. Prying people who would ask questions. About Dan.

About everything. With this man it was different. She could be easy with him. He was—well, a friend! She felt that. Splendid! In his way, of course, but not, Monnie thought, the type to stir her pulses.

As he held out his hand to assist her, she gave him her own. A child's clasp, Charles Eustace felt, half piqued and half amused.

"Believe I will," Monnie murmured softly. "If you'll excuse this—this ridiculous costume."

He gave her a mocking bow, practiced eyes taking in every detail of her appearance. The lace had been adroitly cut to show every exquisite line of the girl's figure.

"It's a lovely dress," he told her. Monnie widened her eyes at his tone. There was something not quite cordial about it. Did he think she was fishing for compliments?

She fedded to the roots of her hair and in that instant Charles Eustace regretted his discourtesy. Used as he was to the finished wiles of more sophisticated women, he had carelessly bulked this young girl with the crowd.

"I'm sorry," he said awkwardly. "I really mean it. It is a lovely dress—"

"Of course, it is old," Monnie faltered, hurt by she knew not what. "It's a party dress, too, and unsuitable—but I was so hot—I had nothing else so cool—I didn't expect anyone—"

She hated herself for it, but suddenly she was in tears.

"Do forgive me. I'm an idiot—but I seem to be all tired out and we were so busy to-day at the store—"

A big clean handkerchief was pressed into her hands. She straightened herself, mopping at the persistent tears, trying to smile again. But it had not been just that. Both she and the man knew that his tone was the lash which had cut her deeply.

Charles Eustace said, slowly, "Monnie, you do know I'm your friend, don't you?"

She stared at him. "I hope so. Of course!"

He flicked at the bushes beside him with a willow switch he had picked up.

"It's only—that I get into one of my bad moods now and again and say things I don't mean. I did mean your frock was lovely. But some devil of sarcasm put that edge on my voice. I don't know why. Or yes, I do. I'm used to the sort of woman who invites comment on her attire. I thought, for an instant, that was what you were doing. I ask your pardon—"

"But even if I had," Monnie began, puzzled, "it's no crime, surely, to want compliments?"

He laughed on an uncomfortable note.

"Of course not. Monnie, you don't know anything about me. I've got a wretched temper. I've been through some bad times. Some day perhaps I'll bore you by telling you about them."

"It wouldn't bore me in the least," the girl told him demurely. Her tears had dried now. The little flare up had only served to heighten her colour.

"Wait just a minute. I'll get a scarf for my hair," she said, going back into the darkened house. She paused to scribble a line for her mother and in that instant the telephone rang stridently. Her instant thought, as always, waking and sleeping, was "Dan!" She put one hand to her breast with an unconsciously dramatic gesture and called out to the man in the shadows, "I'll answer that. Hope you don't mind waiting."

Lifting the receiver, she was conscious of an almost unbearable feeling of tension. But it was not Dan's deep voice that came to her over the wire.

There were many interested spectators at the Kiangnan Dock, Shanghai when H.M.S. Sandpiper, which was re-assembled there, was launched. The top picture shows a portion of the attendance during the dedication ceremony, and the lower Mrs. A. C. Mauchan (on left), who named the vessel. She is holding a bouquet sent her by Rear-Admiral R. Hill, S.N.O., Yangtze.

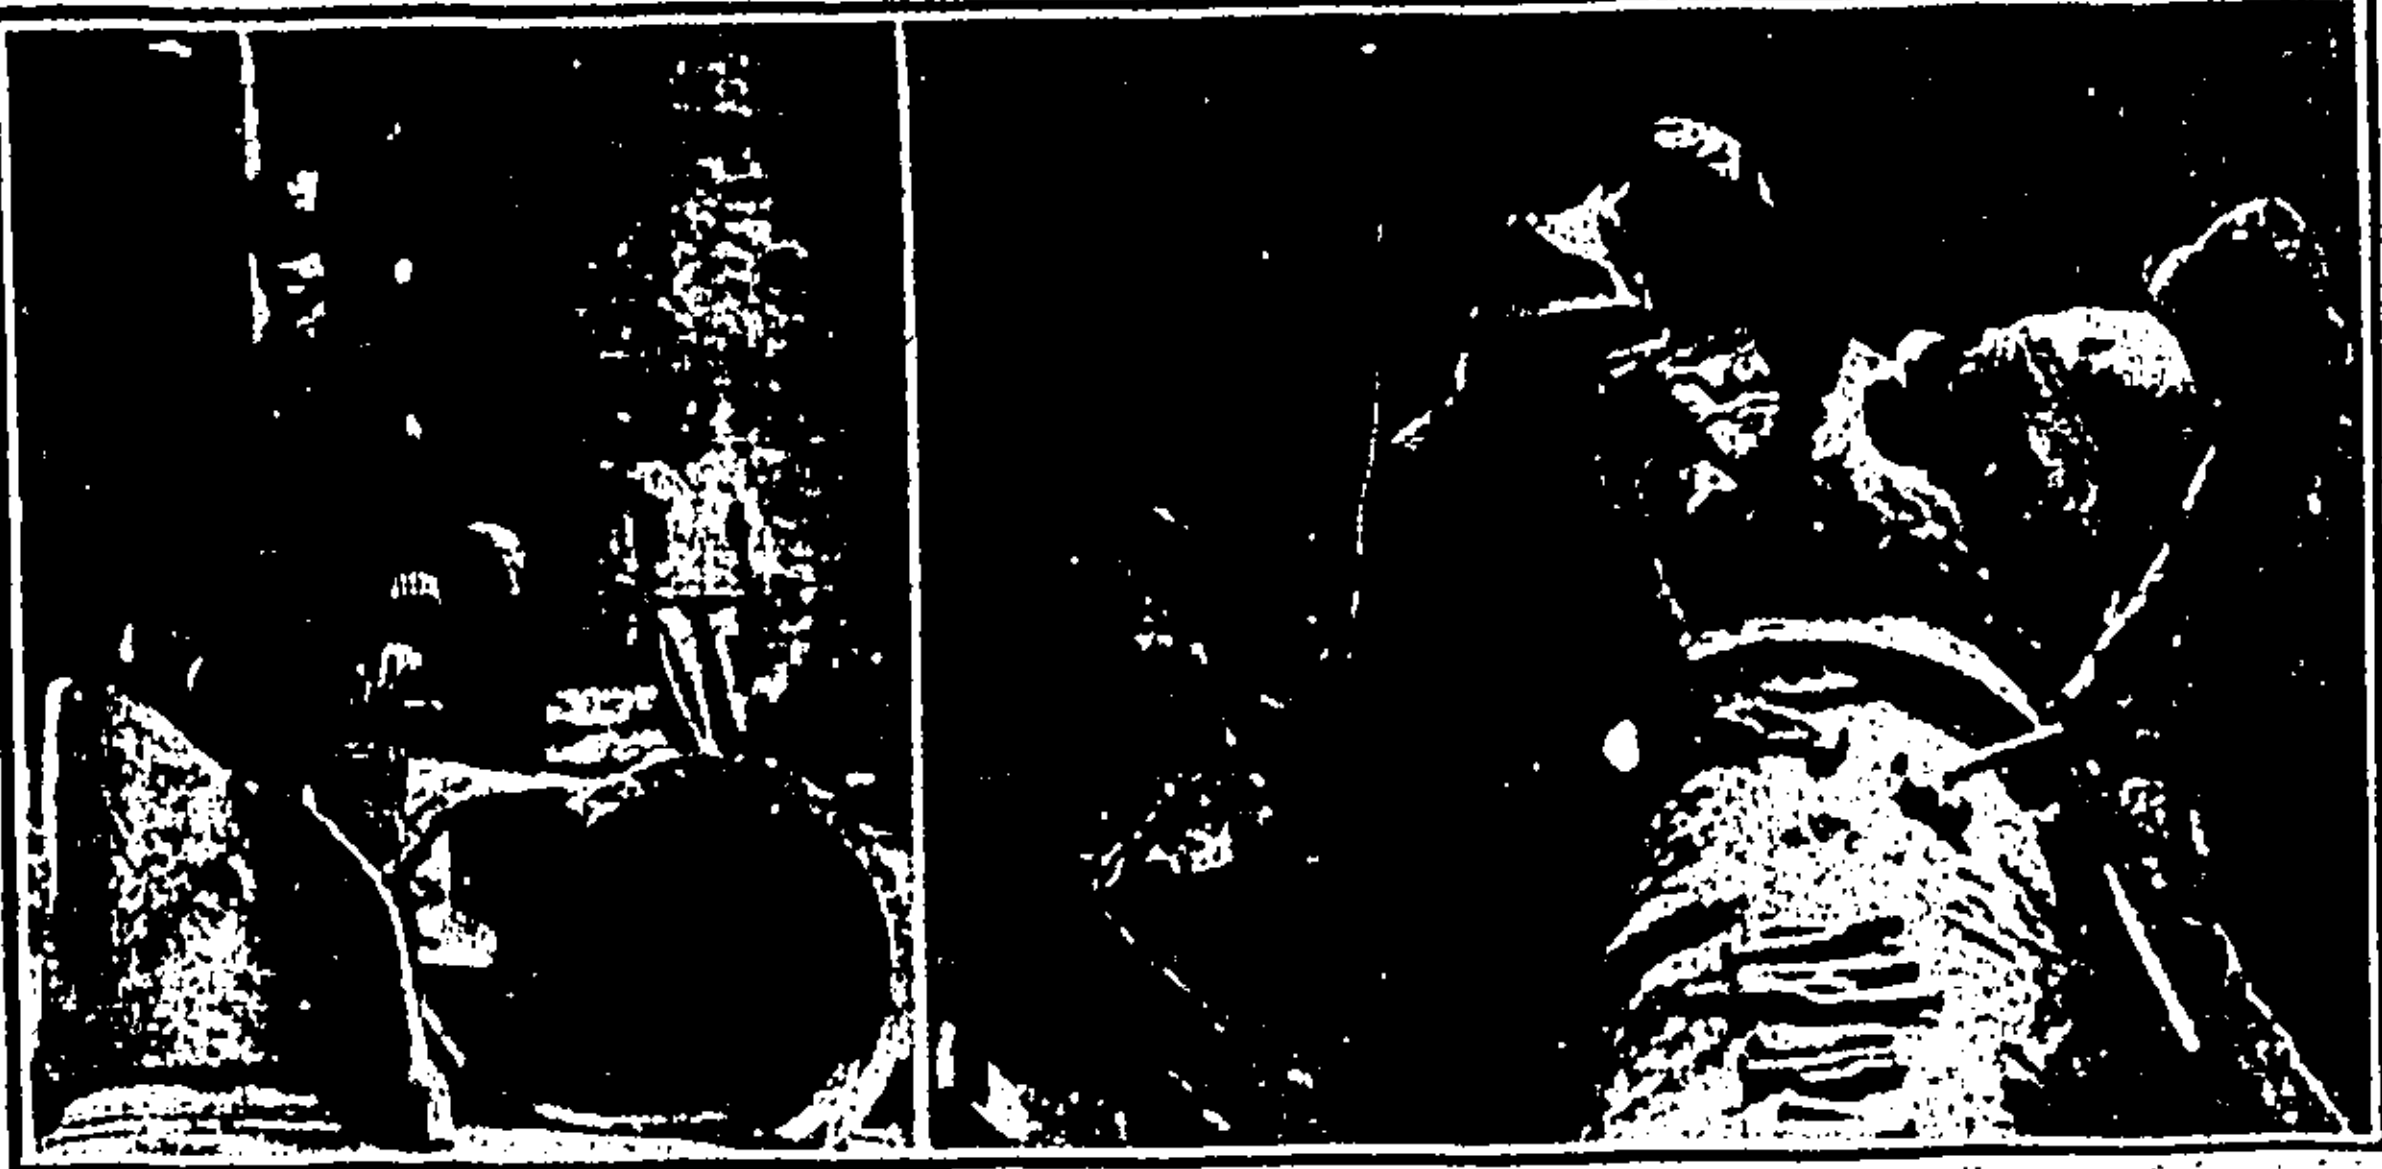

Walter Singler, above, organizer of the Wisconsin milk strike, is being hunted by state officials, who say he will be "held responsible for casualties." Singler has been missing since the strike began.

One of the many captives of the Battle of Shawano is shown here as he was brought in by the "gas squad" of Wisconsin's civilian-garbed guardsmen after a bomb attack.

One of the scores of casualties in the Shawano, Wis., milk strike battle is shown here as guardsmen gave him first aid. The victim, a strike picket, suffered a fractured skull from the blow of a club.

A lake three feet deep was formed on Yangtzepoo Road, Shanghai when a main water pipe broke, and the resulting flood, at 75 pounds pressure per inch, dug a tremendous hole in the street. The picture at the left shows the broken section of pipe—large enough for the policeman to crawl through—and the piece cracked off. It is one inch thick and hard for even three men to lift, which shows the terrific water pressure. The picture on the right gives an idea of the hole blasted in the road. The perilous electric cables are on the left of the hole while a gas main is on the right, next to the water main.

Bayonets, tear gas bombs, clubs and side arms—these were the weapons the state of Wisconsin turned against farm pickets to break the milk strike. With an agreement reached to terminate the strike, state officials are investigating charges that Chicago gangsters fomented strife in an effort to get control of dairy plants. These pictures show the rout of pickets by civilian-garbed guardsmen at Durham Hill, near Milwaukee. The guardsmen are shown above in a charge reminiscent of "over the top" days. Below, the guardsmen are shown deploying behind a tear-gas bomb attack to rout pickets from their headquarters in a farm home. Another serious clash occurred at Shawano.

STIFFENING

DELEGATES CONFUSED

Washington, June 21.
A stiffening, rather than a relaxation of the American delegation's attitude at the London Conference is expected as a result of Professor Moley's mission. He is going to London as the President's own liaison officer.

Congressmen still remaining in Washington are of the opinion that the Conference is in a serious plight, but while the feeling against the French is strong, there is also some disposition to blame the inconsistency of the American delegation and reports suggesting a possible French withdrawal from the Conference are deplored.

Officials declare that France and other gold countries are giving undue prominence to the stabilisation of currencies and argued that the Conference should continue, although if a dominant proportion of nations favoured an adjournment the American delegation would acquiesce.

President Roosevelt said he was determined to implement plans for the raising of commodity prices in America and throughout the world. His administration believes the time has come to drive bargains with other nations and to ensure them conforming with the American domestic recovery programme, especially with regard to the raising of prices, undertaking extensive public works and procuring credit expansion through the central banks.

In the event of other nations failing to co-operate, President Roosevelt believes America must pursue a lone path.—Reuter's Special.

U. S. Misunderstood.

London, June 21.

A complaint that the actions of the American delegation to the World Economic Conference are constantly being misconstrued, and the delegates' time taken up with correcting wrong impressions was made by the American Secretary of State and leader of the American delegation, Mr. Cordell Hull to-day.

Mr. Hull declared that when Professor Moley arrived, he would then say whether he himself would return to America.

The fact that Professor Moley might be replacing Mr. Hull is interesting in view of Senator Couzens' statement that America must choose between a nationalist and internationalist programme, as Professor Moley is an isolationist, while Mr. Hull is well-

CONFERENCE CONFUSION.

Delegates Lose Way In

London, June 21.

A "family tree" for the Economic Conference, has been issued for the guidance of delegates and experts in consequence of the growing number of ramifications. From the original main body there have already developed two principal Commissions, from which sub-Commissions, Committees and sub-Committees have rapidly sprouted, until the members appointed thereto hardly know to which bodies they are attached.

This morning's proceedings covered a multitude of matters. One outstanding was the receipt of a draft Protocol of economic non-aggression from the Soviet delegation, following upon M. Litvinoff's earlier expressions. The protocol draft was immediately referred to the sub-Committee on Economic non-Aggression.

A formidable tongue-twister on the agenda of the Economic Commission—phytopathological questions—created mingled shyness and silence among the delegates. The Chairman passed on to a safer-sounding matter, public works.

Increasing Prices.

Leading Japanese, Swiss and Italian representatives at the Conference spoke to Mr. Neville Chamberlain's recent resolution, favouring an increase in commodity prices. Mr. T. Sushima, Finance Commissioner of Japan, while accepting the British resolution in principle, considered that in its present phrasing it might lead to inflation.

Mr. Bachmann, President of the Swiss National Bank, urged that the Conference, as a first measure, should proclaim the principle of a general return to the gold standard, particularly by Great Britain and America.

THEIR THIRD SUCCESS.

The members of the Portuguese Company, S.V.C., held their fourth annual rifle contest with the Portuguese Company, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, last week and managed to score a third win by a margin of 101 points. The ten best men represented each city, and the conditions of the shoot, as given by Hongkong, were taken from the annual Territorial Rifle Meeting. L/Cpl. A SHOCK FOR THE CONFERENCE

The Hon. Mr. Stanley Bruce, Australia's principal representative, is liable to become highly unpopular in World Economic Conference quarters. His outlook tends towards the practical and that will hardly do. His outspoken speech reported yesterday, describing as a terrible policy the suggested curtailment of the world's production of almost every primary commodity, represents a dangerous challenge; dangerous because it aroused enthusiasm among delegates of the smaller States and may lead to further attacks upon the programmes of the vested interests. Mr. Bruce softened the blow by admitting that, for immediate purposes, consent might have to be given, but the damage was already done. He had bluntly exposed the principal weaknesses of the policies within the contemplation of the most powerful groups and if the seed thus sown grows into revolt, the Conference may yet be compelled to face the raw realities of the existing situation. Mr. Bruce's conception of the world's needs may have sounded a trifle strange coming from the representative of a country which has raised its tariff walls to a height scarcely surpassed anywhere else in the world, but it did not miss the truth of the situation. Restriction of production finally means condemning all but the money-barons to a cheerless existence because of a rigid insistence upon existing artificial values and codes. The amazing callousness to which the abstract reasoning of financial experts can lead is shown by the regret of economists that "such vast strides have been made by power-production during the past twenty years that never again will there be a sufficient scarcity of goods to cause a prosperity-breeding boom." The implication is that unless there are people who do not know where to turn for their next pound of bread, there cannot be profits for money-making circles. The resistance to efforts to contract supplies is not solely based upon this score, however. It can as easily be argued that, in the last analysis, the method will defeat itself. In the measure that production is reduced, will new unemployment be created, lessening the demand for the reduced production and requiring further drastic cuts in order to maintain the artificial price level. The position is the same precisely as with schemes for rationalisation. Rationalisation leads, for all practical purposes, to the same thing. It means that industrialists organise with a view to refraining from producing more than the market can absorb. It means reducing costs at every conceivable point, passing beyond the mere employment of labour-saving and power-saving devices at works, thus eliminating the need for human labour, to embrace avoidance of the middleman. The purchasing power of all concerned in production and distribution is reduced in the fanatical attempt, under the present economic system, to reduce production costs. What is the inevitable result? It is too obvious to require statement. The method is akin to injecting a patient with the virus of his disease in an effort to cure him, if we agree that the cause of the economic crisis is a lack of purchasing power among the consuming classes. There is probably a more fundamental cause, but investigation leads to a new subject, the blind confusion which prevents economists from accepting the fact that the Capitalist system, as we know it to-day, is tottering. Financiers have yet to learn that money is not a debt-creating agency. It is not a commodity. Its true place in human affairs is that of a social mechanism for the orderly production and distribution of goods and services. Until it is relegated to that position, no real progress can be made.

Muzzles or Vaccine?

A set of typically parrot-like answers was given by Mr. T. Megarry to questions by Sanitary Board members concerning the outbreak, or alleged outbreak, of rabies, and the official methods taken to deal with the "menace." One analyses them in vain for some sort of constructive and practical thought. Muzzling and shooting dogs has been the system of the past, so why should we try anything different? That is, in effect, the Government's reply to Mr. Wong Kwong-tin and Dr. Li Shu-fan. To Mr. Megarry it was suggested that inoculation of dogs with anti-rabies vaccine, a distinctive mark to be worn to indicate they have been inoculated would be better than muzzling and shooting. No! Government did not think such treatment would be sufficient. The reason, if any, was conspicuous by its absence. Mr. Megarry admitted the effectiveness of vaccine; he admitted that it was obtainable in the Colony. The professed concern of the Government is the safety of human lives. If then the menace is as great as officialdom would have us believe, would it not be reasonable to expect action along the lines followed during the recent small-pox epidemic? Should not the Government take measures to carry out anti-rabies treatment and also be responsible for the inoculations? Owners would naturally be required to pay for the vaccine, but Government should provide special facilities for the treatment, bringing the cost within the range of the majority of owners, and enabling the Government to keep a check on the animals treated. Mr. Megarry complains of the persistent "surreptitious re-introduction" of the disease into the Colony. The remedy for this, we suggest, is to apply proper restrictions in the New Territories, from where, it is known, our present outbreak emanated. The danger is clearly from there but apparently the Government are going to ignore it just as they prefer the maulin methods of muzzles and guns to humane treatment.

RED RUSSIA'S 50,000,000 CAPITALISTS!

By Dr. EDOUARD LUBOFF

The Soviet authorities are proposing to finance the second Five-Year Plan by internal loans. The first issue of £300,000,000 at par is already announced.

Financial capitalism—a form of capitalism despised and caricatured by Socialists—is certainly booming under the Red Flag. No less an authority than the Pravda, the guardian of Communist purity, actually boasts of the growing strength of the individual bondholders. The rentier army in Russia, we are told with every sign of approval and jubilation, has grown from eight millions in 1929 to forty millions in 1932. In other words, one out of every four citizens of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is a financial capitalist, a "coupon cutter." And the latest loan is expected to swell the number by at least another ten millions.

Let us, however, not make the mistake of accepting these boasts at Moscow's own valuation. The rentiers are a fact, of course, but neither their origin nor growth is any indication of prosperity or even of ordinary normal well-being. Red capitalists are made by compulsion; they are the most unwilling "coupon cutters" in the world, and millions of them would prefer an immediate addition to their ration of bread or butter or meat to all the chances in the lottery loans or the guaranteed dividends on each bond.

The Soviet authorities have certainly shown ingenuity in their financial sharp practices. Their internal loans are a clever disguise behind which the tragically small wages of Russia's workers are reduced still further, thereby curtailing their purchasing power and consumption. The people are ill-fed and ill-clothed, but the Soviet Chancellor of the Exchequer compels them to subscribe to his loans and sees to it that the payments for the bonds are deducted from their miserable wages.

REASON FOR LOANS.

So far, the only reason for all internal loans—the rubles have no value outside Russia—was dumping. By taking £580,000,000 in rubles from the people through the compulsory loans issued in the course of the first Five-Year Plan, Moscow was able to withdraw goods to that amount from home consumption to dump all over the world. There was no other reason for these loans; the money obtained is of no value outside, and is entirely unnecessary inside. The workers and the peasants can always be paid with rubles, which can be printed as and when desired, while all other supplies are owned and controlled by the Government and can easily be transferred from one department to another without the use of currency as such. Stalin could, of course, reduce the purchasing power of the people by other and more direct means, but this would reveal his weakness and might eventually lead to his downfall. Loans, lotteries, and the bait of interest are safer and more certain in the long run.

The new loan is being placed on very attractive terms. Subscribers are offered the choice of two kinds of bonds. One is the so-called "non-losing" bond, every holder of which must in the course of the next ten years win a prize; about £20,000,000 is offered as prizes. The other bonds carry coupons entitling holders to an interest of 10 per cent. on the face value of their bond.

HOW THE DEATH DUTIES CRIPPLE INDUSTRY

BY RONALD STAPLES,
EDITOR OF "TAXATION."

Few people who are not directly concerned can realise the devastating effects of the death duties, not only on those who are unfortunate enough to have to pay them, but on every form of industrial activity.

One or two examples of actual cases will show how the present system of excessive death duties operates against the best interests of the State. The owner of an estate worth £50,000 just after the war desired to make provision for his widow to receive not less than £20,000 on his death after the payment of a legacy of £10,000 to each of his four children. Owing to the increase in the death duties in the meantime, however, the widow would receive less than £14,000 if her husband died in the current year.

The mental burden on the industrialist who realises that he must make provision for death duty payments if possible during his lifetime has on industry a psychological effect of the greatest importance. The whole policy of his business may be cramped and natural expansion retarded, to the disadvantage of himself and his

The Very Idea!

TEST IN PEACE

By Edward Kelly, R.I.P.

WE have just seen the published extracts from Larwood's book on the Australian cricket tour. It appears that Mr. Larwood discovered, during his visit to Australia, a species of animal known as the barracker.

Next time the English eleven visits Australia there'll have to be a different order of things. Too much of a game is being made of cricket.

When the next series starts, we may expect a cable something like this from Reuter:

ASPIRIN TEST

Thrilling Contest of Loving Kindness.

BRADMAN A DUCKY.

WHEN the umpires strolled silently on to the grounds yesterday, the spectators waved their hands and let fly their captive balloons in happy anticipation.

Advancing to the middle of the pitch and toss, the white-coated officials dropped the pin, which was heard distinctly from every corner of the ground.

Mr. Jardine had won the toss with his rubber penny, and decided to bat. The Australians entered the field in three mourning coaches fitted with pneumatic tyres.

"D.B. Jardine, Esq." was the first name posted on the scoring-board with rubber-shafted drawing pins. The English skipper was met at the gate by Mr. Woodfull, who presented him with a bouquet of pansies. Mr. Sutcliffe was given a bottle of scented hair oil, and took Mr. Oldfield's arm to the crease.

Mr. Woodfull then tossed the ping-pong ball to Mr. O'Reilly, not without a certain amount of effort, as the wind was fairly strong. In fact, at one stage the M.C.C. captain felt very much inclined to appeal against the wind.

After two overs, Mr. Sutcliffe drew the leg umpire's attention to Mr. Oldfield, who, he said, was breathing down his neck. Mr. Oldfield explained that he was suffering from asthma, so the three shook hands, and the game proceeded with Mr. Oldfield holding his breath and sucking a peppermint drop.

After three hours Mr. Jardine succeeded in scoring a single, and a messenger brought him a note from an admirer in the grandstand, thanking him and generally applauding his action. Mr. Jardine formally bowed his acknowledgment.

The afternoon tea adjournment was taken in the field, Mr. Woodfull and his charming men handing around the tea and scones.

As darkness was setting in towards the end of play the chaperones for both teams came to the field, and stumps were drawn.

While the band played the National Anthem in the deaf and dumb language, the crowd reverently held its breath.

The rest of this palpitating story will be told in silence, owing to the fact that both teams are now sleeping after their strenuous day on the field.

HUM-DINGER.

Things should hum in football circles next season. We are not quite certain, on examining the proposed new rules, whether the new Council will be composed of twenty-two, twenty-six or thirty members. But 'twill be a goodly number.

We hear that one prominent local footballer on reading the proposed new League rules was found distraught, wandering about the railway track, talking to the little birds.

First suspicion was that he had been hit by a train, but he was later heard to be murmuring "And it only takes nineteen people to fill up a British Cabinet."

He also said something about "Service for Service men," but it was thought that he was again a trifle light-headed.

FROM THE ECONOMIC FRONT.

Yes, my dear friends, you want to know what we have gathered here together for, gathered here from all the ends of the earth. What are we about to do? You may well ask. It is the question we have come here to decide. What are we about to do. Let me tell you, gentlemen, the world cannot wait. We must do something if this world is not to sink into utter chaos, and I have little doubt, little doubt, still having faith in human ingenuity and (a little voice) banking resource, that we shall do it. It will all be plain sailing if we see eye to eye. Gentlemen, we must take steps and take them quickly. (Loud cheers).

It's a sad heart that never rejoices.

"Should I let my husband go ahead with this business venture?"

ITALY SOUNDS A WARNING

LONDON, JUNE 21.

ONCE AGAIN A NOTE OF WARNING HAS BEEN SOUNDED AT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE, THIS TIME DURING A DISCUSSION UPON MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S PROPOSALS FOR CREATING LIBERAL CREDIT FACILITIES IN ALL COUNTRIES.

With the general principles of the proposals, there was little disagreement, but the Italian delegate pointed to the danger of making credit available before a demand for credit established itself. The obvious danger is that the resources will be used for purely speculative purposes, leading to an artificial boom and a further catastrophic reaction.

TRADE RESTRICTIONS.

The problem of trade restrictions is now the topic of discussion in the first Sub-Committee of the Economic Commission. This is the Commercial Policy Sub-Committee and a private meeting was held this afternoon under the chairmanship of Herr Krogmann, the Lord Mayor of Hamburg.

BRITISH PROPOSALS.

A number of proposals were submitted including draft resolutions by the British delegate, proposing, among other things, the abolition of clearing and barter agreements as far as possible; the abolition of import prohibitions, without prejudice to the exceptions generally recognised internationally;

that a clear distinction be made between import quotas for the protection of the home producer and production, or market quotas imposed in pursuance of international agreements in order to effect a rise in prices; the progressive abolition of all arbitrary import quotas.

REGULATION.

The abolition of arbitrary import quotas is regarded by the British delegation as of the highest importance, but it is thought that the best solution of the special problems raised by the disastrous slump in the prices of certain primary commodities will be international agreements for the better regulation of production and marketing between the countries principally concerned.

CREDIT POLICY.

The work of world conference was continued to-day in the two sub-committees of the monetary commission. The proposals advanced in the first of these sub-committees by Mr. Neville Chamberlain were supported in speeches by several delegates, including M. Bonnet, the French Finance Minister, who suggested that the proposals should be considered by a special sub-committee instructed to bring back definite recommendations as early as possible.

He added that while it was necessary to discipline production they must also try to increase consumption and thus end the terrible paradox of mankind starving in the face of plenty.

He agreed that a policy of cheap money, made available in each country at the lowest rates which the circumstances of loans would permit, was essential. Operations in the open market must be most carefully considered by technical experts.

A WARNING NOTE.

The Italian delegate, Professor Beneduce, while in general agreement, urged that for a liberal credit policy to have the desired effect upon prices it should not precede a demand for credit otherwise there was a danger of the volume of available credit being diverted to speculative transactions which might produce a period of artificial prosperity liable to be followed by another crisis.—British Wireless.

MAN'S BODY WASHED ASHORE

HEAD PARTLY SMASHED IN

In a badly decomposed condition, with the head partly smashed in, the body of a man was found in Telegraph Bay on Monday afternoon, apparently having been washed ashore.

The body was taken by the police to the mortuary, but identification was impossible. It is believed, however, that the body must have been dumped overboard from a ship, and must have been in the water for a considerable time. No foul play is suspected. Inquiries made in the village reveal that no person is missing.

EUROPEANS AT LAW

REPAYMENT OF LOAN CLAIMED

FORMER BUSINESS ASSOCIATES

At the Supreme Court this morning, before the Puisne Judge, Mr. R. E. Lindsell, Harold Guard, of 2, Garden Road, and a former partner in the International Advertising Service, sought to recover from Charles North, of David's Cafeteria, Hankow Road, Kowloon, the sum of $300 alleged to have been lent by plaintiff to defendant in July of last year. A counter-claim for $150 for wages was also filed.

Mr. P. H. Sin appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. O. E. C. Marton, of Messrs. Deacons, for the defendant.

Plaintiff stated that defendant was engaged by the International Advertising Service to work during his spare time on a 20 per cent. commission basis, payment to be made on all advertisements procured by him at such time as the advertiser settled their accounts. On July 4th, defendant wrote a letter to witness which stated that he was financially embarrassed and asking for an advance. Witness consulted his partner who refused to make such an advance from the firm so he, witness, loaned plaintiff $300 from his own personal account.

Plaintiff denied that defendant was engaged at a salary of $300 a month, with a further 20 per cent. commission on all advertisements obtained by him and 25 per cent. on all profits shown by the International Advertising Service, as was alleged by the defence. Defendant left the firm at the end of July and plaintiff did not see him again until November when he approached him concerning the loan. Defendant then stated that he was not very well off at the time but was expecting something from a firm overseas. The money was never repaid.

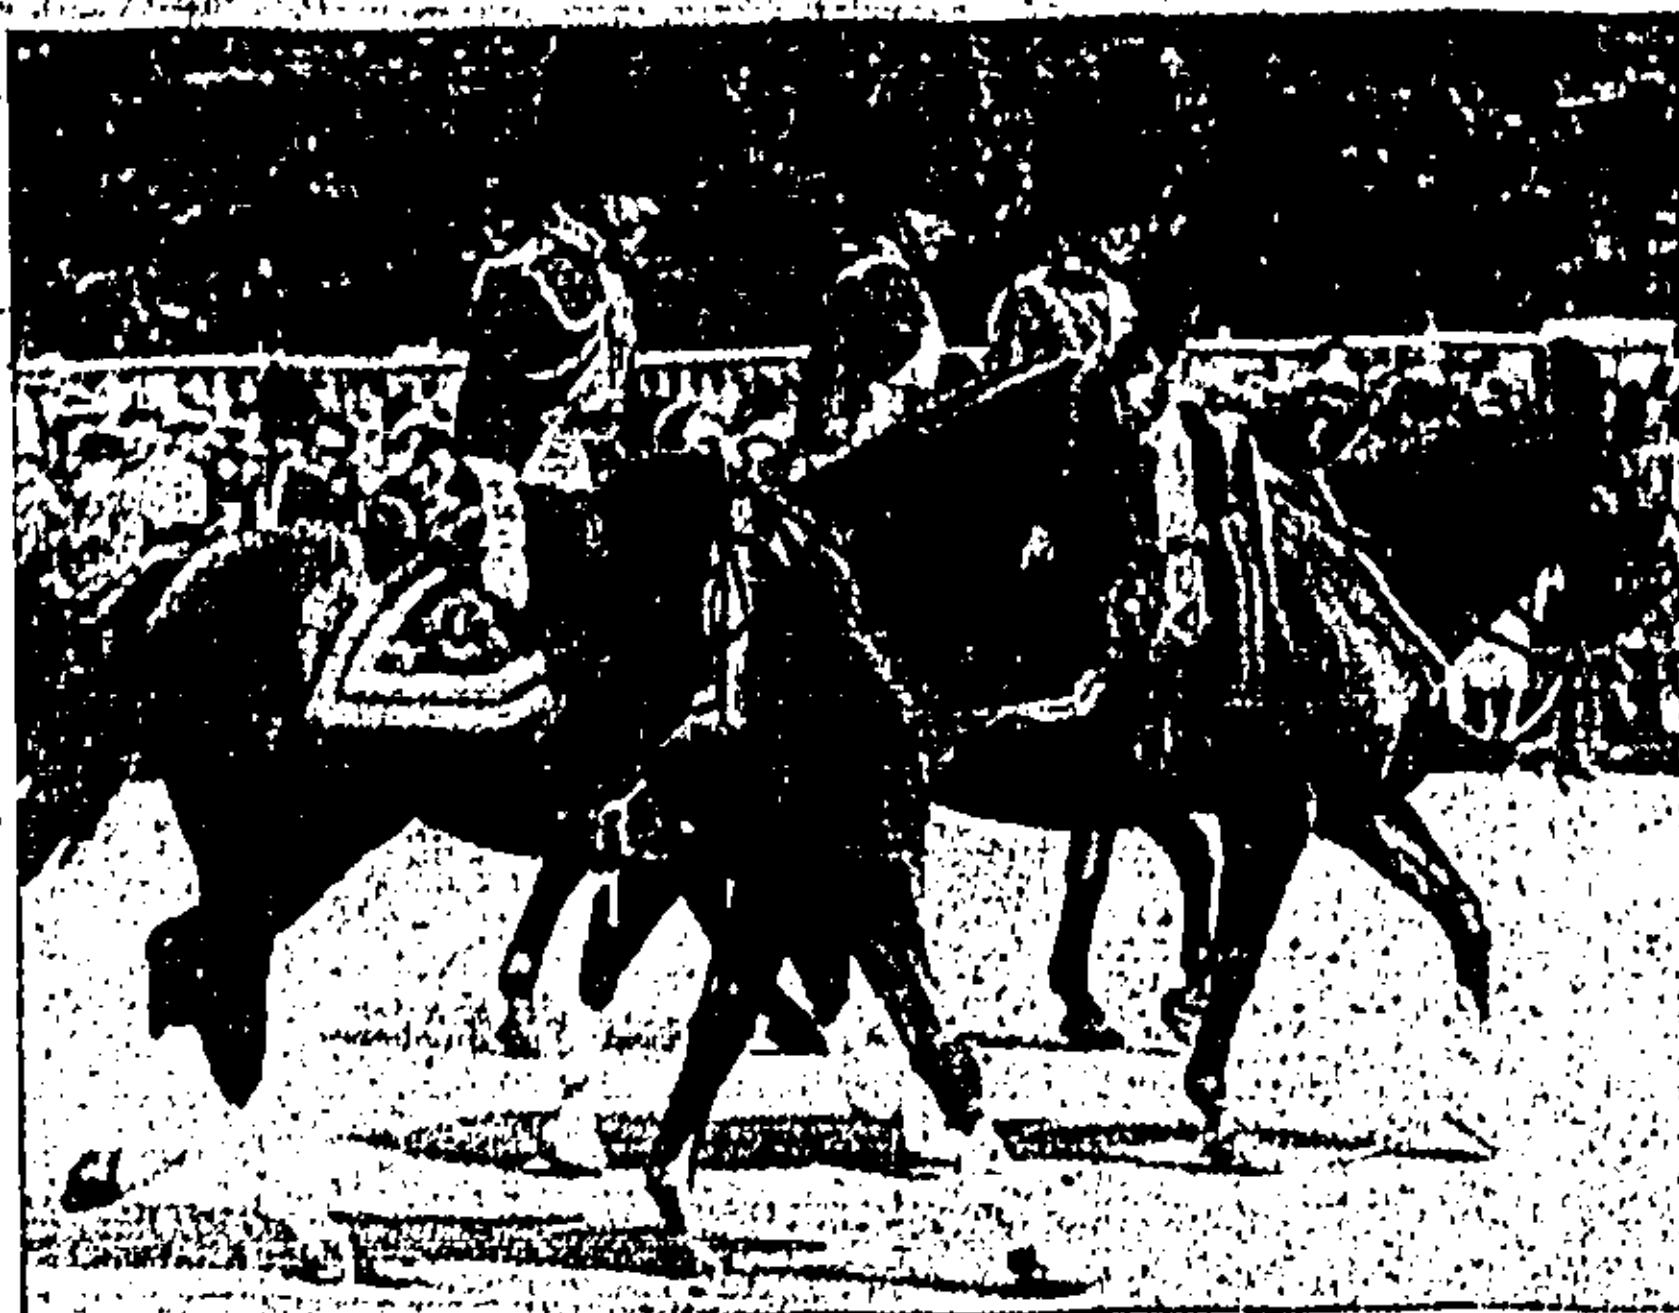

Answering Mr. Marton, witness admitted that no receipt was given for the money as he trusted defendant implicitly at the time. The only reason he could give for defendant leaving the firm was that he was pressed by creditors who kept calling at the offices. He denied that the sum of $300 was due to defendant from the firm for commission and that the loan was really from the firm but said it had been taken from plaintiff's personal account as the firm's banking account was only just over $270 at the time.

MORE OPIUM CASES

CONVICTED MAN AGAIN BEFORE COURT

Sentenced to a prison term about two months ago for keeping an opium den in Queen's Road Central, an elderly Chinese appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones in Court this morning, charged with a similar offence. He was arrested by Revenue Officer Grimmit at 12, Burrows Street. Six pipes and seven lamps were picked up and there were fourteen smokers on the premises. A fine of $190 with the alternative of eleven weeks was imposed.

A raid at 22, Second Street resulted in a woman being charged with the possession of quantities of both raw and non-Government prepared opium. Fines totalling

MR. LI CHOR CHI'S DOG

ALLEGED TO HAVE BITTEN CYCLIST

CASE DISMISSED

Mr. Li Chor-chi, of No. 37 Kai Tak Bund, made another appearance before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when he was summoned for allowing his dogs to be out in the public street without muzzles.

One summons was the result of a report made to the Police by Mr. Lau Hsiung, who was bitten by a dog belonging to Mr. Li. It was stated by Mr. Lau that he was on a motor cycle in Kowloon City at about 6 p.m. on May 30. He saw Mr. Li Chor-chi with three dogs walking down the street, and on seeing them he slowed down his motor cycle. One of the dogs snapped at his ankle and bit him.

At the time, he thought nothing of it, and when Mr. Li asked him if he was all right he answered in the affirmative. Later he saw a doctor and on the latter's advice asked Mr. Li to put the dog under observation. It was thus that the matter came to the notice of the Police.

Evidence was also given by Sergeant Butcher regarding the report made to the Police. Sergeant Simpson, who took the dog away for observation, stated that it had a muzzle but one of the straps was broken. Otherwise it was a very good muzzler.

KICKED DOG ON HEAD.

Defendant, in his statement, said he was walking in Kowloon City with his three dogs on the day in question when he saw the complainant riding in his motor-cycle. Witness knew the complainant slightly and when the latter slowed down he thought he wanted to speak to him. Witness stopped and complainant did likewise. In doing so, complainant had to put his feet on the ground to steady his cycle and accidentally kicked one of the dogs on the head. The dog turned round and snapped at him.

Complainant was not sure at the time whether he had been bitten or not. There was no sign on his trousers, and he said he was all right.

After hearing the evidence, the magistrate said there was no evidence that the dog had actually bitten the complainant and in the circumstances he would dismiss the summons.

The other summons against Mr. Li Chor-chi was also dismissed as the constable who took out the summons was not in Court.

$250 or twelve weeks were inflicted.

Two keepers of divans at Cross Street were fined $125 or seven weeks, and $175 or nine weeks, respectively. One defendant stated the divan was for the benefit of his foks.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

JUDGING IS BALANCING AN ACCOUNT, AND DETERMINING ON WHICH SIDE THE ODDS LIE.—Locks.

A fine of $50 or one month was imposed by Mr. Schofield this morning on Kwai Chi, who pleaded guilty to receiving 111 white wall tiles, the property of the Chung Lee Building Contractors.

Tsang So, a returned banished, was sentenced to eight months' hard labour by Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning. The defendant, arrested in Wanchai, said he had come to see his mother.

Two Chinese arrested playing football in Connaught Road Central, were charged before Mr. Schofield this morning by Inspector Hourihan. Leung Ping said he was looking on, and was discharged, while Tee Sau-kuen was fined $3.

CURRENCY WAR

EUROPE GETTING IMPATIENT

SECRECY URGED ON U.S.

London, June 21.

There were strong rumours in London to-day that if and when stabilisation of dollar-sterling exchange takes place it will be round about 4.40 to the pound instead of 4.05 as was contemplated during the week-end.

After the receipts of an important cable from Washington by the American delegation to the World Economic Conference, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald held long conversations with some of the leading figures in the delegation to-day.

There is a general apprehension that America's attitude towards stabilisation may wreck efforts at a compromise in other important directions.

PREMIER URGES SECRECY.

It is reported that the Prime Minister, who is President of the Conference, urged the American delegates to keep the stabilisation discussions secret in order to enable the Conference to proceed with other subjects unhampered.

It is stated that he also urged secrecy on the score that world markets would not be subjected to the disturbing influence of stabilisation rumours.

It is understood that the American delegates agreed temporarily to restrain further information to the public in this matter.

EUROPE IMPATIENT.

It is reported that a number of the delegations of the smaller European Powers are getting highly impatient with the delay in securing stabilisation as a result of America's attitude.

They are urging the holding of a special meeting of the European Powers at the conference for the purpose of concentrating upon seeking an agreement embracing the European States.

FRANCE SEEKING NEW TRUCE.

The French attitude is reflected in a message from Paris stating that considering dollar stabilisation proposals as dead, French finance is now looking to the provisional backing of a sterling-franc exchange, leading to a European currency truce, without the United States.—Reuter.

ARGUMENT LEADS TO BRAWL

AND A SERIOUS INJURY

An argument between two Chinese in Taifoo Street, Sai Wan Ho, on June 20, led to one of them picking up a stone and throwing it at the other, who received a gash on the head.

The assailant, Chan Chuen-chol, was charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, and ordered to pay $20 amends or go to prison for three weeks, and in addition was fined $50 or one month's hard labour. He was also bound over in $50 to keep the peace for one year.

Sergeant Slater said that the injury to the complainant, Chan Sai, was such, that at one time there was the likelihood of a serious charge being preferred. The defendant absconded, and was arrested yesterday afternoon.

A Chinese motor mechanic was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday, with burns received when tending to the engine of a Kowloon bus.

Cullen Wins With A Wick

EXCITING FINISH TO BOWLS TIE

H. Nish, 1932 runner-up, obtained easy entry into the third round of the open singles lawn bowls championship yesterday when he defeated J. A. Howe, on the K.C.C. by 21 shots to 4. Howe discovered Nish in his deadliest form, the K.B.G.C. exponent pulling out his best shots to win head after head. A continuance of such form would make Nish a firm favourite for the title this year.

F. Cullen of the Kowloon Dockers had a much tougher and most interesting match with J. Chadwick, the K.C.C. representative.

Cullen won by two shots on the 23rd end, but before he obtained the winning point he experienced several anxious moments, particularly towards the close, when Chadwick, taking a new lease of life, bowled his best to reduce a deficit.

Chadwick succeeded in levelling the scores at 19, and then Cullen scored with a rather fortunate wick and scraped home.

Both players indulged in high class bowls and if Chadwick can consider himself unlucky to lose after such a recovery, it must also be recognised that Cullen, through his consistency, deserved his success.

WIMBLEDON "SEEDINGS"

GREAT BRITAIN WELL TO THE FORE

G.P. HUGHES TEAMS UP WITH MRS. HELEN WILLS MOODY

London, June 21.

A remarkable revision of players and their order of merit is a feature of the Wimbledon tennis championships "seeding," which has just been issued.

Several new names appear, whilst fresh combinations in the doubles events have added considerable interest.

Great Britain, doubtless as a result of her recent successes in the French Championships and earlier in the Harcourt Championships of England, has secured greater recognition.

The list of "seeded" competitors, as cabled by Reuter is:

MEN'S SINGLES.

1. Ellsworth Vines (U.S.A.)
2. J. Crawford (Australia)
3. H. Cochet (France)
4. H. W. Austin (Britain)
5. Clifford Sutter (U.S.A.)
6. F. J. Perry (Britain)
7. Jiro Satoh (Japan)
8. H.G.N. Lee (Britain)

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

1. Mrs. H. Wills Moody (U.S.A.)
2. Miss D. Round (Britain)
3. Miss M. C. Scriven (Britain)
4. Mme. Mathieu (France)
5. Miss Helen Jacobs (U.S.A.)
6. Fr. Krahwinkel (Germany)
7. Mlle. Jedzejowska (Poland)
8. Mlle. Payot (Switzerland)

MIXED DOUBLES.

1. E. G. Maier and Miss Ryan
2. J. Borotra and Miss B. Nuthall
3. G. P. Hughes and Mrs. Wills Moody
4. N. V. Farquharson and Miss M. Heeley

MEN'S DOUBLES.

1. J. Borotra and J. Brugnon (France)
2. E. Vines and K. Gledhill (U.S.A.)
3. G. P. Hughes and F. J. Perry (Britain)
4. N. V. Farquharson and V. G. Kirby (S. Africa)

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

1. Miss Ryan and Mme. Mathieu
2. Miss M. Heeley and Miss D. Round
3. Mlle. Sigart and Miss Scriven
4. Miss Nuthall and Mrs. F. Whittingstall

CRAWFORD'S JUMP.

As a result of the "seeding," Britain has three representatives in the Men's Singles, H. G. N. Lee coming in for Jean Borotra, whilst Frank Shields and Sydney Wood of America concede places to Clifford Sutter, their compatriot and Jiro Satoh, the Japanese ace.

Cochet gives place to Vines as No. 1 and Crawford, thanks to his French Championships and Davis Cup achievements, rises from No. 8 to second place. Austin this year is "ranked" above Perry. Three new players find their way into the women's "seedings," Miss Margaret Scriven, conqueror of Mme. Mathieu comes into third place, and Mlle. Jedzejowska, the Polish star, who made such a deep impression in the spring tournaments in England, is ranked No. 7.

HELEN AND HUGHES.

There are some particularly interesting line-ups in the doubles. The Ellsworth Vines-Wills Moody combination has been broken, and G. P. Hughes will partner the world's leading lady player.

Wilmer Allison and Van Ryn, who last year figured as No. 1 in the Men's Doubles, are not even included, but the South African pair, Farquharson and Kirby occupy fourth place, with Perry and Hughes, the Davis cup pair, as No. 3. Vines and Gledhill team up together at Wimbledon for the first time and have been "seeded" No. 2 to Borotra and Brugnon, the Frenchmen.

That powerful combination, Miss Ryan and Mme. Mathieu have naturally earned first place in the women's doubles, but Britain have excellent representation in Miss Round and Miss Heeley and Miss Nuthall and Mrs.

Mlle. Jedzejowska.

Macauley To Get His Chance

WILL PROBABLY PLAY IN TEST

London, June 21.

G. C. Macauley, the Yorkshire bowler, who has been skittling out the county teams this season, has been asked by the M.C.C. to attend Lord's on Saturday in case he is needed for the Test match against the West Indies.

It is revealed that Clark, the Northants trundler, who was selected for the England team, has been declared medically unfit by a doctor who examined him to-day. Clark has strained the muscles of his thigh and has been ordered to rest.

Macauley will probably take Clark's place in the team, but much will depend on the state of the wicket, as Townsend, the Derbyshire spin bowler, has been picked as twelfth man, and may come into the side if the conditions are likely to favour him.

Macauley was selected for one Test match against Australia in 1926.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEYESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done $590,000 shares. After an irregular and dull day the market rallied near the close due to London reports that the U.S. dollar might be pegged at around 4.40 to the pound. Favourable steel and electricity news also helped to stimulate the market. The Ironage Magazine report that the primary cause of demand is the piling up of releases against low-priced second quarter contracts as June 30th deadline approaches. Persistence of heavy retail automobile demand is surprising even the auto trade. Indications are that June automobile output will exceed that of May with the movement of steel to the auto industry continuing at the present pace through most of July. Cable received this morning from Swan, Culbertson & Fritz, New York: "Most stocks moved narrowly with oils strong. Further strength in oils, motors and harvester issues expected. Cotton: London developments indicating the Government's determination to allow no interference in highest commodity price programme and claims of unexpected response in the Western Cotton belt to the cotton curtailment plan is increasing confidence in higher price levels. The market was quiet but very steady. Wheat advanced on insufficient rains and severe crop losses already sustained in the U.S. Northwest and Canada."

HOW THE DEATH
DUTIES CRIPPLE INDUSTRY

employees. The effect is felt equally in cottage and castle.

Death duties sometimes swallow up the whole of the capital in a business, which thereupon ceases to be a profit-making—and consequently, tax-paying—concern. Employees are thrown out of work and a national asset is put out of commission. This point is well illustrated by the case of a principal partner who held £500,000 of the capital in a manufacturing firm. When he died recently the capital of the firm was diminished by £150,000 and its profit-making and tax-producing capacity reduced by more than 30 per cent. Such a business would be unlikely to recover from the shock in these times when the most affluent concerns find it difficult to make headway.

When the ownership of an estate is transferred by death more than once during a brief period the effects are even more severe, even although some relief from the duties is given in such circumstances. The following example will emphasise this—

VALUE HALVED.

The owner of a business with a capital of £120,000 died in 1925, and was succeeded by his son John, who died in 1927. John left the business to his brother, who died last year. On passing by will into the hands of an employee the capital of £120,000 has become only £60,000 owing to death duties, and the business will probably cease to exist through its impoverishment.

A man who held £1,000,000 of the capital of a firm died in 1926 and left his interest to his son, who died five years later. Instead of being a millionaire the grandson of the first proprietor succeeded to only £150,000 as a consequence of heavy death duties. When the duties payable on death were repealed in Italy, the Italian Minister of Finance said that the Government believed that the immediate loss to the Treasury would be more than compensated not only by the performance of an act of justice but by a real general increase in prosperity. If the present financial situation in this country renders the actual repeal of the death duties impossible, it is high time that the rates of duty were reduced and more liberal reliefs granted where estates change hands through death more than once during a short space of time.

One man was drowned and several hundred people marooned by a cloud-burst near Liverpool. It rained an inch and a half in half an hour. At one railway station the approaches were submerged to a depth of four feet. A middle-aged cyclist, attempting to ride through the flood, when his machine struck an obstacle in the deepest part of the water, was thrown off and drowned.

BONHAM-STRAND PROPERTYFINAL JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANT*WIDOW'S CLAIM

Pong Tsoo-ching, of Shatin, defendant in the Bonham Strand West Property case, was awarded final judgment and costs by the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, at the Supreme Court this morning.

The action, which was commenced some weeks ago, was brought by Li Tso-shi, who sought to recover 75, Bonham Strand West, from Pong Tsoo-ching, alleging that the property assignment was a forgery by her own adopted son, Li Kai-loy.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon and Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, Junr., instructed by Messrs. Lo and Lo, represented plaintiff, and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Messrs. Hastings and Co., appeared for defendant.

ESTOPPEL PLEADED.

Giving final judgment for defendant, His Lordship said:—

"Following upon my judgment delivered on June last, the defendant has here moved the Court for final judgment."

"On the hearing of the motion the defendant has called evidence with reference to the search in the Register of Deeds in the Hongkong Land office conducted by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist. They used the record of this search in the preparation both of the mortgage from Li Kai Loi to Yan Pun dated April 24, 1931, and of the assignment by Yan Pun to the defendant dated August 6, 1931."

"This evidence coupled with that previously given establishes the estoppel pleaded in the Statement of Defence."

"In order to meet this position the plaintiff has in the course of the hearing of the motion, been allowed to file a reply. By her reply she has contended that this estoppel is defeated by certain circumstances."

"In the reply it is pleaded that even if the plaintiff in fact had such knowledge and had consented, as she is alleged to have done, nevertheless, Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, had received 'before payment of the purchase price to the vendor Yan Pun' full notice and information of facts contained in a letter dated August 6, 1931, written by Messrs. Lo and Lo, the solicitors on behalf of the plaintiff."

SOLICITORS' DUAL ROLE.

"With reference to this first portion of the reply, I find that the notice contained in this letter did not in fact reach Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist 'before the payment of the purchase price to the vendor Yan Pun.' The letter arrived at the office of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist at a point of time when the purchase money was still in their custody; but the deed having been executed by both parties they were then custodians of the money as agents solely for the vendor. The vendor alone could claim the money from them. They were agents for both parties in the transaction; and after execution of the assignment by both parties, the solicitors held the deeds for the vendor, and the consideration for the vendor. For this reason the first portion of the reply, in my opinion, fails."

"A further answer to the same portion of the reply is, that whatever notice may have reached the purchaser on August 6, 1931, such notice will not operate to disentitle him as purchaser from the mortgage unless it can be shown that the mortgage was affected by like notice. The reply does not allege that the mortgage was affected by any notice contained in this letter."

FLAWS IN TITLE.

"The remainder of the reply amounts to this, that Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, the solicitors for the defendant, during the period from July 23, 1931, to August 6, 1931, obtained knowledge from the mortgagee that there were flaws in the title to the property; that they omitted the proper enquiries; and that their knowledge and their omission became, in the circumstances which arose, the knowledge and the omission of the defendant himself, thereby affecting the defendant with notice of all flaws existing in the title that might, on due enquiry have been revealed."

"For the defendant it has been submitted that this argument is unsound."

"It will be agreed that the knowledge of an agent will only become knowledge to his principal where a legal duty lies upon the agent to communicate such knowledge to his principal; and, basing his position upon the case of Taylor v. Blacklock (1830-3 Bingham N.C. 235) the Defendant's Counsel has here contended that so far from there being a duty on Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist to inform their client, the purchaser, of the flaws in the title, it would have been a breach of their own duty to the vendor who was also their client, so to inform the purchaser. The case cited is, however, not an authority for the proposition that a solicitor acting simultaneously for two parties and finding himself under conflicting duties becomes relieved from the performance of one duty by the fact that he, by performing it, in breach of his other duty. The solicitor's course in these circumstances is clearly laid down for him in the case cited in the judgment of Tindal C.J. The Solicitor must retire in silence from both duties. It seems to me

THREATENED BY CROWDWHY TAXI DRIVER DID NOT STOP*AFTER KNOCKING CHILD DOWN

That he did not stop to render assistance to the injured child because of the threatening attitude of the crowd in Third Street, where the accident happened, was the plea of Chan Tim, a driver of the Sun Taxi Company, who was summoned before Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning, for negligent driving and failing to stop after an accident. Fines totalling $30 were imposed.

The magistrate said he would not accept the defendant's story about the threatening crowd. Defendant had stated he backed into Western Street and it was there so it would have given the crowd ample time to damage either him or the taxi. Drivers who were threatened usually drove forward as fast as they could.

Traffic-Inspector Alexander said that during the past year, they have not had a report of drivers being threatened. They had had no trouble with the coolies.

Mr. C. D'Almada appeared for the defence and pleaded not guilty. Evidence showed that the defendant had a call for 92 Third Street. While looking for the house he knocked a girl down. She was extracted from under the car by her mother, and her ear was bleeding. The mother took her into a house. She was in hospital for five days but her injuries were not of a serious nature.

Defendant, in evidence, stated that after the accident the crowd shouted loudly, "Tah kai" (strike him). When he heard the threats he did not get out of the taxi but backed into Western Street. He reported the accident to the No. 7 Police station straightaway.

Mr. D'Almada said that defendant's explanation for not stopping seemed to him to be reasonable. Firstly, because the mother took the child away, and secondly, because the crowd threatened to strike him.

The magistrate remarked that it was possible the defendant might not have noticed the child, in looking for the house number. At the same time, he should have paid more attention to the road.

Defendant's record card showed he had accidents before but not recently.

KING'S PRIZE AT BISLEYRUNNING COMMENT BROADCAST

The Hongkong Broadcasting Committee announces that:—

"A running Commentary on the Final Shoot at Bisley for H. M. the King's Prize will be relayed from Davenport if reception proves good between 10.30 and 11.15 to-night."

that Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist were under the duty to disclose to the purchaser all material information in their possession however derived and whether acquired before they became his agents or afterwards (see judgment of Vaughan Williams L.J. in Young v. David Payne and Co. Limited 1904 L.R.).

PLAINTIFF'S CO-OPERATION.

"Other submissions made for the Defendant which are in my view effective, are these. Firstly, that this information did not operate to invalidate the mortgage to Yan Pun, and until the mortgage is invalidated the title of the purchaser from the mortgagee remains unaffected by notice to the purchaser and absolute good. Secondly, that the knowledge in question could not have initiated an enquiry which would have led to the discovery of the impersonation of Li Woon Nam, and is therefore not notice of that impersonation which is here the only material mis-conduct; and further even if it might have so led yet it is not open to the present plaintiff to rely upon such notice, because she has been found already by the Court to have been as late as July 31, 1931—indeed, until August 5, 1931—actively co-operating in concealing this very impersonation from persons concerned in this sale."

"Thirdly, that there was no omission of enquiry on the part of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, who were on July 31 still endeavouring to trace the documents of title which had been shown to them at the auction sale of the property."

"For these reasons it seems to me that the estoppel which rests upon the plaintiff is not defeated by any counter-estoppel."

"I give final judgment for Defendant with costs."

KING FEISAL'S VISITENTERTAINED BY CITY OF LONDON*LIFE GUARDS AS ESCORT

London, June 21.

King Feisal of Iraq made an official visit to the City to-day where he was presented with an Address of Welcome by the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London.

The King drove through crowded streets in an open landau accompanied by the Duke of Gloucester and members of his suite. The carriage was drawn by four horses with outriders. The Sovereign's escort of Life Guards escorted the procession.

The ceremony of presenting the Address was followed by a luncheon at which the Lord Mayor, in proposing King Feisal's health said that the close association between Britain and Iraq rested not only upon the formal provisions of the treaty but upon a firm friendship inspired by mutual prospects and of interests formed in the war and sustained and strengthened in the peace.

The King Feisal, replying, made a gracious acknowledgment of the hospitality accorded him and proceeding said that the friendship between their two countries was born out of common sacrifices and had been nourished by rapid developments of mutual interests.

"My country has received much help in the past from Britain and looks confidently for further help in the future and I know she will not look in vain. We need your help to develop the vast resources of our country and the City of London, the birthplace of so many merchant adventurers, has never failed to appreciate the opportunities open to enterprise in distant lands."

GOVERNMENT DINNER.

To-night, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Sir John Simon, gave a dinner at the Foreign Office on behalf of the British Government in honour of King Feisal. Prince George was among the distinguished guests.—British Wire-les.

HUMANE KILLING OF FISH CRUELTY FORBIDDEN IN THE KITCHEN

Cologne.

As a result of an agitation by the German Society for the Protection of Animals, the Prussian Minister of the Interior has ordered that crabs and lobsters must be put into the pot when the water is briskly boiling, and not when it is cold.

The order also provides for the humane killing of other fish. Many German house-wives like to buy their fresh-water fish alive. Restaurant customers, too, are able to choose their favourite fish from a shoal swimming about in a tank. Such fish must be first stunned with a wooden mallet before being cut with a knife.

Frogs also come within the provisions of the order. They are to be stunned by a blow on the head before anything more drastic is done to them.

Breaches of the order may lead to two weeks' imprisonment or a fine of £7 10s.

ATTEMPTED THEFT OF WATCHSEVERED FROM CHAIN BY KNIFE

Denying a previous conviction for larceny last year, a Chinese youth, charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning, with the attempted theft of a gold wrist watch, was remanded for sentence until tomorrow for proof of the conviction.

The complainant, a cloth vendor, was asleep in Wing Kat Street. His foki was nearby on another bed. Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, defendant with another man approached the complainant, and severed the watch chain with a knife. The foki raised the alarm and defendant passed the knife to his confederate who made good his escape. The watch was left behind.

Defendant claimed he was on his way to the market to hawk.

LONDON POLICE OPERATIONSONE MOVE—THEN ACTION*THE "Q" CARS

The Map Room at Scotland Yard is playing its part in frustrating schemes of London's criminals. Some months ago Lord Trenchard, Commissioner of Police, surprised the C. I. D. when a map was placed on the wall in the office of one of his assistants who had been given instructions to watch the abb and flow of crime. The idea was to show at a glance where crime was most prevalent.

From that small beginning the Map Room has grown to such an extent that six detectives are now engaged in keeping the series of maps—one each division—up to date.

Each move on a map coincides with the swift action of other schemes co-ordinated to check the successful attempts of the law-breaker.

The crime Book now in use records the history of every offence with which the Criminal Investigation Department has to deal. At the time crimes were recorded in a haphazard fashion, but to-day a complete account of what has actually been done must be ready at any moment.

While the map scheme was developing and proving its usefulness, steps were taken to provide all the London divisions with rapid transport facilities.

Very quickly the vehicles known in the force as "Q" cars have taken their place in harassing criminals who use motor-cars.

The police cars are manned by a wireless clerk and two policemen—one detective and one uniformed man wearing plain clothes. They work in close touch with Scotland Yard's Flying Squad and the divisional squads almost without a break.

The controllers of the Map Room at the Yard know the whereabouts of these cars at all times, and when the maps show that a concentration is required in a particular district no time is lost in strengthening the local forces.

A recent epidemic of bag snatching from women in the north-west suburbs was soon overcome by the co-ordination of the Map Room at the Yard and the men of the "Q" and Flying Squad cars.

It is claimed that the motor-bandit gangs have in a great measure realised the precariousness of their calling since the new scheme began to run smoothly. As the police gain more experience the bandits' job may become even more risky.

MR. C. A. ELLIOTT

Mr. Claude Aurelius Elliott, O.B.E., Fellow and Senior Tutor of Jesus College, Cambridge, who has been appointed Headmaster in succession to Dr. Alington, who was recently appointed Dean of Durham, is an old Etonian. He will take up his duties in September.

Mr. Elliott is 44. He was born at Simla, and is the youngest son of Sir Charles Elliott, the Indian administrator. From 1902-6 he was at Eton, first as an Oppidan and then as a King's Scholar; and he is the first Colleger since Dr. Balston in 1862 to be elected Headmaster.

From Eton he went to Trinity College, Cambridge, and took First Classes in the Historical Tripos Part I, in 1908, and Part II in 1909.

In 1910 he became Fellow, and in 1914 Tutor of Jesus College, Cambridge, an office he has retained till the present day, though he was absent during the War.

At Eton and Cambridge he was a "wetbub"; and is a member of the Leander Club; he is also an expert mountaineer and is a member of the Alpine Club. He has written occasional articles on history and mountaineering.

He married in 1913 the daughter of the late F. T. Bloxam, Chief Chancery Registrar, and has one son who is now at Eton. A mountaineering accident prevented him from joining the Colours during the Great War, but he served with the Red Cross in Flanders in 1915. Owing to an attack of fever he was invalided home and then joined the Admiralty staff, in which he worked for over four years.

During the last five years Mr. Elliott has taken a prominent part in university affairs. In 1928 he became a member of the University Financial Board, and of the Council of the Senate.

Mr. Elliott's father, during his 40 years in India, took part in suppressing the Indian Mutiny and received the Mutiny Medal.

CHILDREN'S READINGVICTORIAN AUTHORS STILL POPULAR*HENTY, ALCOTT AND COOPER

What does the "modern child" read? Sidney Webb, Joad, Lenin or Marx, or the Covenant of the League of Nations?

Alas! a shock awaits Utopian educationists when they open the new catalogue of the Children's Club and find out. The catalogue shows that the flower of British childhood at the present day is passionately keen on "What Katie Did Next," and better still, "With Clive in India," "The Wonder Book of Soldiers," and "Tales of the Great War."

Their elder brothers and sisters, equally forgetful of the duty of being "modern," are deep in the discredited Victorians—Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, and Tennyson. The only book by "Darwin" that they care for is entitled "Mister Tootle-oo."

Long-forgotten names shine with steady brilliance in this catalogue. Jules Verne going round the moon or under the sea, and Ballantyne exploring his coral island, share the honours of best-selling with Henty's unshamed Imperialism and the Red Indians of Fenimore Cooper.

KATIE.

All Louisa M. Alcott and Sarah Coolidge (the various doings of Katie) are there, partly as period pieces, but chiefly for a more mysterious reason.

As every girl knows, boys' books are as thrilling and girls' books are apt to be tedious, and the Children's Book Club has regretfully decided that girl school stories are "in general very badly written and nearly always give a totally unreal impression of school life," and the old favourites have had to be included to swell the number.

In spite of healthy conservatism, the members of the club have their eccentricities. The older ones have a zest for Bernard Shaw and "Mr. Britling Sees It Through."

The youngest—up to eleven—begin the adventure of literature on Tolstoy, Alfred de Musset, and Spenser's "Faerie Queene." Perhaps a certain difficulty in spelling English establishes an instant sympathy between Spenser and the modern child.

SOVIET WORKERS' PLIGHTHIGHER COST OF LIVING AND WAGES IN ARREARS

At a joint meeting of representatives of the Commissariats of Finance and Heavy Industries in Moscow, the problem of the growing financial difficulties experienced in Soviet industries was discussed at length.

The fact that Russian industries are in arrears with the payments of wages to the workmen has been frankly admitted in the Soviet press lately. For instance, the Central Building Organisation owes its workers wages amounting to 12 million roubles, and several building trusts have paid no wages for three months.

Strikes are inconceivable in the republic of workmen and peasants, where every striker is shot without compunction. The Commissariats examined the reports from different industrial centres, discussed the situation at great length, but adopted no resolution. In the meantime, the cost of living continues upward, and the industrial workers are tightening their belts to make further sacrifices.

PROFESSIONALISM IN MUSICDANGER OF LOSING REPOSE & SERENITY

"I don't think London could put up four choirs that would rival the four choirs we have heard here," said Mr. Kennedy Scott in addressing the class for ladies' choirs at the Isle of Wight musical competition festival.

He said they could get professional work out of big cities because people were paid to do it, but speaking generally they would not get amateur work. In these days of hectic modern life they were in danger of losing in music the repose and serenity enjoyed by their ancestors.

Support For Voluntary HospitalsTHE PRINCE ON A "MIRACLE"

The Prince of Wales, at the annual meeting of the General Council of King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, read the following congratulatory message from the King on the year's work:

The King is glad to hear that the whole of the increased distribution of £200,000 was covered by the income of the year. His Majesty is much gratified at the way in which the public are continuing to support the King's Fund and the voluntary hospitals during this time of financial crisis.

WAR AGAINST DISEASE.

Reviewing the year's work the Prince said:

"I think that we have to record what is little short of a miracle; that, in spite of the financial crisis and the very serious times we are going through, the King's Fund and the voluntary hospitals have had a successful year in 1932, as indeed they have had for some years past."

By the end of 1931, he pointed out, they had been able to increase ordinary distribution to £275,000 and keep a margin in hand. There was reason to fear that some at least of the hospitals would be suffering seriously from the crisis. It was decided to make an immediate increase in the distribution from £275,000 to £300,000. That distribution was a fresh landmark in the history and progress of the King's Fund. In spite of weak spots the hospitals, taken as a whole, had again, for the sixth year in succession, come out with a margin on the right side.

"The hospitals," the Prince added, "have more and more developed the soundest of all methods of attracting and retaining voluntary contributions. This consists in keeping before the public the value of their work in the relief of suffering and the war against disease, and the fact that, in doing this work, they are performing a regular public service which requires in return regular income from the members of the community."

OUT-PATIENT REFORMS.

The Prince referred to the outpatient question dealt with in the report of Lord Onslow's Committee.

The out-patient arrangements committee, he said, had begun their work by taking up the recommendations of the points—standard forms of doctors' letters and hospital time-tables for out-patients. On the first of these, Lord Onslow's Committee reported that the doctors were contemplating the preparation of standard forms.

"Their action is greatly to be welcomed," the Prince remarked, "and a good deal of experience is being gained. The recommendations on the subject of hospital time-tables were designed to prevent the waiting that now occurs when patients come at the wrong time, or even on the wrong day. The problem here is the best form of general time-table, and the best method of distributing it to those who will find it useful."

"When the Committee come to the actual procedure inside the outpatient departments, they propose to begin with the study of time-saving methods at the dispensary stage. They do this because improvements at that stage, if found to be desirable, could often be carried out without causing consequential changes in the rest of the procedure."

SIR HENRY ROYCE LEAVES £110,000BEQUESTS FOR HEALTH RESEARCH

Sir Henry Royce, director of Rolls-Royce, left gross estate valued at about £110,000.

His great aim was to make provision for research for the distribution of knowledge for the purposes of improving the health of, and preventing disease to, the human race.

To that end the trustees were directed in the will to apply one-tenth of his estate in making payment to such universities, colleges, schools, societies, and other entities engaged in making researches in such proportions as they think fit.

The trustees are also to apply the capital of four-fifths of the residue of the estate to similar purposes following the cessation of the life interests therein of the widow, Lady Royce, and Miss Ethel Aubin, who the testator described as, having been his nurse for over 20 years, and who had done so much to prolong his life.

INNOCENT MEN IN PRISONRELEASED AFTER TWO YEARS*THREE BROTHERS

Madrid, "Innocent" was the verdict given at the end of a three-days' trial of the three brothers Miralles, who have been two years in Madrid prison for alleged implication in disorders on May 10, 1931.

Such is the travesty to which the administration of justice has been reduced in Spain. These young students, of respectable families, who were innocent from the beginning, have had to spend all this time in gaol for some mysterious reason known only to those in authority.

On May 10, 1931, a number of Monarchists, wishing to form a party, held a meeting which was duly authorised by the authorities. All went well until a crowd of Republicans congregated outside and came to blows with the Monarchists as they came out.

This incident was the spark which led later in the day to a mob attempting to attack and burn down the building of the "A.B.C." the Conservative newspaper. Many shots were fired and two people were killed. The next day convents, monasteries and churches were blazing all over Spain and martial law was proclaimed.

NO REDRESS.

Among the many arrested were the three Miralles brothers and the editor of "A.B.C.," the latter being released a month later, the Public Prosecutor being unable to find a charge against him. No redress was possible for his illegal confinement.

The three brothers Miralles, despite the Press campaign waged by Spain's most important newspapers and demands for justice by large sections of the country, have had to continue in prison for two years before being tried this week.

After all this time an accusation had to be made, and the Republic's prosecutor charged two of the brothers with homicide in connexion with the two men killed outside the "A.B.C." There was no charge against the other brother, although he has been in prison all this time.

Senor Golecochea, defending counsel, in his final appeal to the jury said: "Think with Lord Macaulay, who said that the felicity, liberty and honour of nations are not found in Magna Charta nor in their lofty institutions but in the integrity and virtue of a dozen of men. I ask for a verdict of not guilty so that these boys may return to their parents to-night."

The public applauded and many embraced the three brothers who are now back home again and receiving thousands of congratulatory messages from all over the country.

THE "TOTE" ON DOG TRACKSPROPOSALS MADE TO GOVERNMENT

Concrete proposals for the statutory control of dog racing tracks as a condition for the legalisation of totalisators have been submitted to the Government on behalf of the dog racing interests.

The proposals have been approved by a group of members of Parliament, of which Captain Arthur Evans, member for South Cardiff, is Chairman. The Government have been asked to consider them together with the final report of the Royal Commission on Betting, which they will receive before Whitsun.

As a condition for the legalisation of totalisators on dog racing tracks, it is proposed that a statutory board similar to the Race-course Betting Control Board should be established for the control of totalisators operating on dog racing tracks.

STATUTORY OBLIGATIONS.

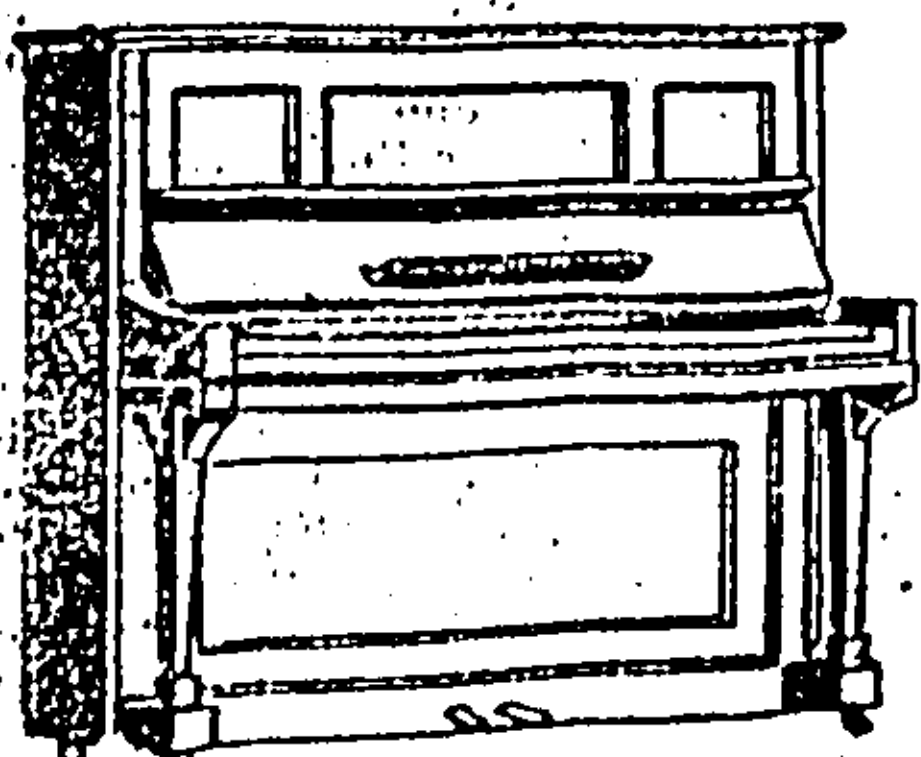

It is also proposed that this measure of control should be accompanied by the following statutory obligations:

- 1.—Not more than four meetings per week to be held on any dog racing track.
- 2.—The number of races to be run at each meeting not to exceed eight.
- 3.—Sunday racing to be prohibited.
- 4.—No person under 17 years of age to be permitted to bet on a dog racing track.
- 5.—The offering of prizes for forecasts of race results to be illegal.
- 6.—Suggestions are also made, it is understood, as to the licensing of tracks with a view to insuring that attention is paid to conditions prevailing in the localities in which it is proposed to open new tracks.

DARLING TOOL

"Oh, Miss Anstice. Yes. How are you?"
She put cordially into her tone. Miss Anstice was an old family friend.

Charles Eustace, lounging against the pillar outside, heard a note of alarm in the quick, terse words that followed.

"What? Yes—yes. Please tell me. Outside Miller's garage just five minutes ago? There must be some mistake. She's at Rissy's! Thank you. I know you won't. Yes, I'll do something about it—at once—good-by—"

All the colour now drained from her cheeks, she returned to Charles Eustace.

"Something terrible—I don't know what to do!"

He put out a brown, lean hand, touching hers. "Tell me. I'll help you."

Eyes big and dark and unseeing, she stared at him.

"It's Kay. She's gone—with some man. Miss Anstice happened to see them. She's not a gossip. She's a real friend. They had bags, she said. The man was asking the best way to Waynesboro."

Good Lord! Charles said.

"Jump in. I know that road well. We can catch up with them."

Binding the scarf she had picked up from the hall table about her head with stumbling fingers, Monnie obeyed.

The accents and sound of a June night received them, as the motor purred and the powerful little car plunged down Denny street. Everywhere—everywhere were little groups on porch and lawn. Lights in little houses. Laughter. The music of a radio. Monnie thought, blindly, "Little Kay, Little Kay. I've got to save her."

"Miss Anstice didn't happen to mention what sort of car it was, did she?" inquired Charles, expertly swerving to avoid a boy on a bicycle.

"No, she—she— Monnie's teeth were chattering now, as if with cold. "I'm so frightened," she interpolated. "What if we don't catch up with them? I never can face Mother!"

The calm voice of the man in the driver's seat came to her. "We'll find her," he said. "Don't you worry!"

Ahead, miles ahead, on the country road, Bigelow grinned down at the girl beside him.

"Cooler now, baby? That sure is a hot burg you live in."

Kay said, "Yes, lots cooler." She cast an apprehensive glance back over her shoulder. "Sure nobody saw me when you stopped for gas?"

He had a big, booming laugh—empty, meaningless. He employed it now.

"Baby, don't think about that old burg any more. You've shaken the dust from your shoes. You're slated for big times."

He slipped an arm around her shoulders. Kay shrank from it. "Hain't you better watch the road?"

The laugh boomed again. "Don't like one-armed drivers, to you, Baby?"

Kay grimaced to herself in the darkness. She'd been a fool to come, she told herself, but she was no quitter. She'd burned her boats. She'd have to keep on going.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Though born in Hollywood, Marion Burns, young hopeful of films, failed to attract the attention of motion picture studios until she had scored success as a leading woman on Broadway in New York. She knows now that the longest way round is the shortest way home.

In New York she was fortunate enough to enlist the interest of David Belasco. She played roles in several productions including "The Royal Family" and "The Front Page."

Deciding that experience in stock would be of benefit to her, she joined a company playing at the Fulton Theatre in Oakland, as its leading woman. Following this experience she played with other stock companies, including one at Denver, where she remained 22 weeks. Then she went back to New York and played roles in "Broadway," "They Don't Mean Any Harm" and "Intimate Relations."

Then she was offered a screen test by Fox Films which resulted in a contract.

Her first assignment is an important role in "The Golden West" George O'Brien's latest outdoor romantic thriller, now playing at the King's Theatre.

Others in a noteworthy cast include Janet Chandler, Bert Hanton, Arthur Plerson, Emmett Corrigan, Edmund Breese and Onslow Stevens. David Howard directed.

"The Wiser Sex"

The highly organized underworld is given a dainty swift kick on the sabbath in "The Wiser Sex," opening on Sunday at the Queen's Theatre.

And it is the alluring too of Claudette Colbert which delivers the kick, just in the nick of time to keep a self-styled tough egg from railroaded her fiancée on a murder charge. Miss Colbert portrays the role of a darling of class, who leaves yachts, limousines and liveried servants to get herself into a tight spot.

People who have just the right kind of evidence to exonerate her fiancée.

Douglas, whom you'll recall if you saw Gloria Swanson's "To-night or Never," is a crusading attorney, who gets himself put on a torrid spot for being enthusiastic about a city cleaner and rather negligent of his romance with Miss Colbert, if that could happen.

The action reveals just how nicely a female Sherlock can time things when there is vital business, like restoring a lugging romance, at hand.

"The Cohens and Kelly in Trouble"

Those who are tired of Depression will find a welcome relief in "The Cohens and Kelly in Trouble" co-starring George Sidney and Charlie Murray, which opens at the Central Theatre to-day.

Among those who add to the laughs are "gravel-throated" Andy Devine, the imitable Johnny Howard, Maude Fulton and Henry Armetta, while Frank Albertson and Maureen O'Sullivan lend convincing portrayals as the young lovers.

The story concerns Patrick Kelly, tug boat captain, and Nathan Cohen, retired business man, who comes to see him after an absence of many years. The men are just starting to have their fun when a young revenue officer falls in love with Kelly's daughter, and Kelly hates revenue officers.

General complications start the action off. There are yachting trips, rum boat chases, and plenty of other excitement as the plot comes to a more or less happy ending.

"Rome Express"

No better story could have been written for the initial production of the vast new Gaumont-British Studios than "Rome Express." Here is a story full of life and vigour; with interesting detail examined into every scene and action running throughout, rapidly, yet smoothly, moving to a great climax.

We begin, appropriately, at the departure of the express from the station and finish at the Rome terminus, and from the time two criminals "jump" the train as it is leaving the station, until the time one commits suicide and the other reforms, excitement grows gradually more and more intense—the climax leaves you breathless!

There is a missing Van Dyck the theft of it by a timid criminal, who is murdered by a cruel and callous criminal. There is the accidental discovery of it by a supposed philanthropist, who is really a scoundrel at heart. The fight on the train, ending fatally, the suspicion cast on everyone, the exposure of the runaway lovers, and the suicide (most spectacular) of the real murderer. It is impossible to convey in print the grip of this film, produced as it is with such competence and imagination, such knowledge of the art of thrill building.

The cast has much to do with its success: Esther Ralston, Conrad Veidt, Cedric Hardwicke, Harold Huth, Gordon Harker and Donald Crisp—just to mention half a dozen—add fresh lustre to their names, that will surely never tarnish. Walter Forde should be proud too, for, as director of "Rome Express," he has established himself as one of the world's front rank directors. It is pleasant to think that this work was carried out in the great British studio at Elstree, and that the work was done in English at last holds her own in the field of dramatic film.

"Rome Express" will be shown at the King's Theatre next Sunday.

WONGNEICHONG AUCTIONED

Two Chinese tenement buildings at No. 2 and No. 4, Sing Woo Street, Wongneichong, with the site which has an area of 1,529 sq. ft., were sold by public auction in Mr. E.V.M.R. de Sousa's China Rooms yesterday afternoon.

The property is held for a term of 75 years, dating from July 9, 1912, the Crown rent being $422. Bidding was slow and confined to two bidders. From $15,000 the price was raised to $16,600, at which sum the property was knocked down to Mr. Poon Pok-yook.

Property Withdrawn.

At Messrs. Lamport's Auction Rooms, two other Chinese houses, No. 53 and No. 55, High Street, West Point, were put up for sale by order of the mortgagees, but were withdrawn without any bids. The upset price was $27,500.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

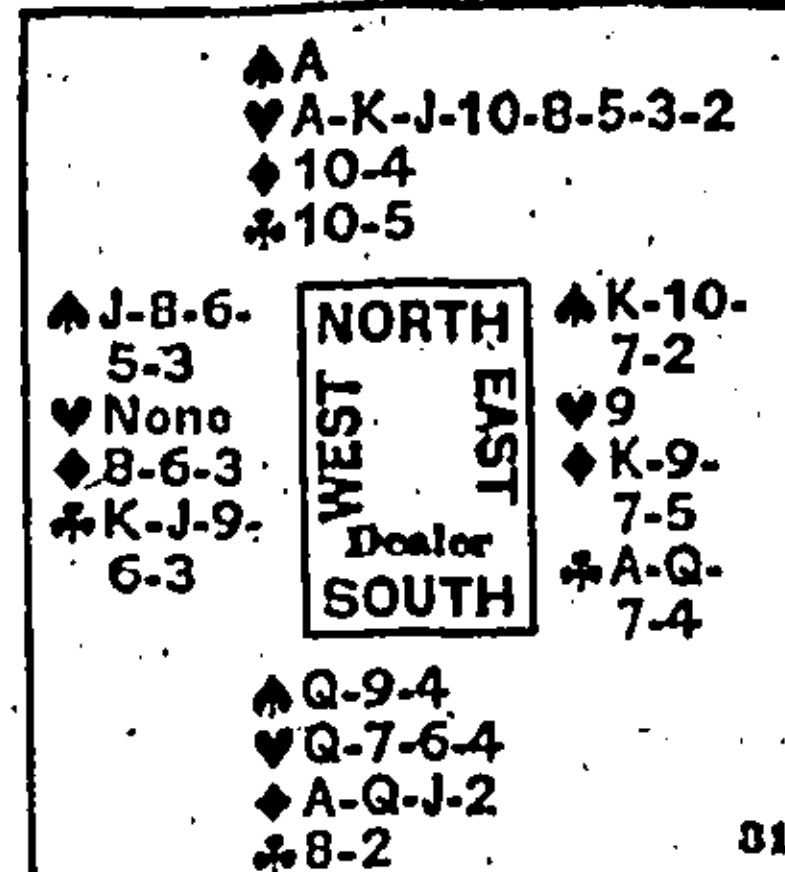

While everyone is striving for perfection in contract bidding, I am always thankful for the fact they have not been able to make contract a mechanical game.

Even at duplicate, Lady Luck has a lot to do with the final result. If you are not getting the breaks, you don't win. Sound partnership bidding and good play, of course, produce the best results in the long run, but don't feel discouraged because you get a bad result or a bad break on one hand.

Take for example the following hand—one pair bid for a slam and, due to the fact that a club was not opened, they made it. As a matter of fact, by employing a clever squeeze, a grand slam can be made without a club opening.

The Bidding

The correct bidding on the hand would start with passes by South and West. North would bid one heart. I do not believe in preemptive bidding, therefore I would not recommend that North open with a four heart bid. With four losing cards, he cannot open with a forcing two or three bid.

After the bid of one heart by North, South should bid two hearts, showing normal trump support and practically guaranteeing two entries into his hand. North can now go to four hearts.

At one table North opened the bidding with four hearts and South, his partner, took him to six.

Supposing that East opens the nine of trump, declarer wins with the ace, leads the ten of diamonds. When East covers with the king, win with the ace in dummy, lead a spade and win with the ace.

Lead all of the hearts but one, leaving the declarer's hand with the deuce of hearts, the four of diamonds and the ten and five of clubs. This will leave East with the king of spades and three diamonds to the nine spot. Dummy will hold the queen, jack and deuce of diamonds and the queen of spades.

The last heart is led—and East is squeezed. If he drops the king of spades, dummy's queen will be good, so he must let go of a diamond, unguarding that suit. Declarer discards dummy's queen of spades and the three diamonds in dummy are good. A grand slam has been made. However, only four odd should be bid on the hand.

the third round and John Burke,
Irish champion for the last three years, at the nineteenth, in the fourth round.

A BLOODLESS REVOLT

SIAM LEADER'S COUP
D'ETAT

Bangkok, June 21.
Siam has experienced another peaceful revolution overnight.
General Phrayabhai, Commander-in-Chief of the army, and who lead the last revolution restricting the powers of King Prajadhipok, has now turned out the old State Council and declares it his intention to open a People's Assembly in accordance with the Constitution.

Meanwhile a cable has been sent to the King at Hunhin, assuring him of the loyalty of the army, and navy and the people in taking this action.

To check the spread of Communism, King Prajadhipok last April dissolved the Assembly and appointed a new State Council to govern pending the elections for the Assembly, the King assuring the country that it was only a temporary suspension of the Constitution.—Reuter.
